Sierra

By STAN CLOUD

If California is to protect itself from the onslaught of private development, the state must act now to serve necessary recreation land for the expanding population and to protect its heritage of scenic beauty.

Stripped of statistics, that is what about 200 people were told by a panel of experts at last night's meeting of the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club held at Carmel Junior High School auditorium.

The experts were Margaret Owings, member of the State Park Commission; Edward Dolder, chief of the division of beaches and parks; and Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel), chairman of the Senate Committee on Natural Resources.

Appears

There was also an unannounced and apparently unexpected appearance by Tom Hudson, member of the County Board of Supervisors, who interrupted a question-and-answer period for about five minutes, taking exception to some comments which had been made during the evening.

Mrs. Owings opened the meeting by saying, "This particular instant in time that is ours will neither remain nor come again. So our task is urgent."

"More public lands in the form of parks must be obtained," she said. "And we have the means of accomplishing this through Proposition 1."

Proposition 1 is the state parks bond issue which appears on the Nov. 3 ballot. If passed, the bonds would provide $150 million for the acquisition of beaches, parks and other recreational facilities.

Use of Funds

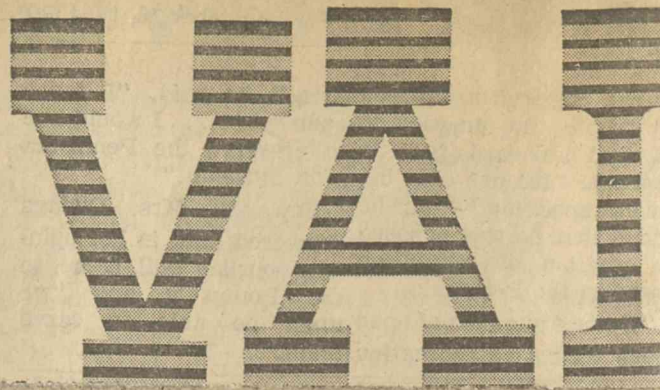

Farr, who had to leave early to attend another meeting in Salinas, described how money obtained from the bond issue would be used.

He said that $85 million would go for the acquisition of state park lands, $20 million for the minimum development of these lands, $5 million for Wildlife Conservation Board projects and $40 million for grants to local governments for parks and recreation.

Describing a recent trip to Southern California, Farr said that many people in Los Angeles want the Santa Monica Mountains included in the state park system.

"If this bond issue fails," he said, "22 subdivisions will move into the Santa Monica Mountains."

Farr said, "The time is now or never."

Remsen Bird

On Program For Demo Rally

Dr. Remsen D. Bird of Carmel, president emeritus of Occidental College, today was added to the list of speakers for Sunday's Monterey County Democratic rally and picnic at Riverside Park and Trout Farm in Carmel Valley.

The affair will begin at 12:30. Col. E. A. (Pat) O'Malley, general chairman, said he expects a crowd of more than 500 persons.

Other speakers will include State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) seeking re-election on Tuesday; Democratic congressional candidate Sanford H. Bolz of Salinas and Democratic Assembly candidate Irby E. Bourriague of Felton. Mrs. Jehanne Salinger Carlson of Carmel will speak on behalf of the election bid of her son, U.S. Sen. Pierre Salinger.

One of the features of the day will be a hootenanny led by folk singers Joe Broadman and Mark Ellington, both of the Monterey Peninsula.

Recreational activities include a donkey ride for children, sack races and horseshoe pitching tournament. Food and refreshments will be available in booths manned by members of the Monterey Peninsula Democratic Club.

There will be no charge for admission to the grounds. Proceeds from activities at the affair will be used toward the Democratic campaign.

CONSERVATION LEADER

RE-ELECT OUR STATE Senator

FRED FARR

MONTEREY COUNTY

DEMOCRAT

Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall describes Fred Farr as "one of America's outstanding conservation leaders," and with good reason. Senator Farr's pioneering efforts in conservation legislation have brought him national attention.

He is the author of California's Scenic Highways and Scenic Easement acts, and the recipient of the California Conservation Council's highest award. He is also an honorary life member of the Sierra Club.

As chairman of the Senate Natural Resources Committee, Senator Farr is in an excellent position to continue his able and imaginative work for preservation of our scenic resources.

Magyar Predicts Farr Won't Serve Full Term

Mr. Herald 10-28-64

SALINAS — GOP state senatorial candidate Stephen G. Magyar last night predicted that if State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) is re-elected Tuesday he will not serve out his term.

Speaking before about 250 persons at a League of Women Voters "Candidates Night" at Washington Junior High School, Magyar said the Democratic Party has "bigger and better things in mind" for Farr.

Farr told the audience that Magyar was wrong, that all he wants is to be returned to office in the State Senate.

Magyar, of Pacific Grove, suggested that Farr might be in line for a federal appointment.

Udall's Job?

Today, Magyar told The Herald that he believes that Farr is being boomed as a successor to Stewart L. Udall in the Department of the Interior.

Magyar noted that an article in the current issue of U.S. News and World Report, proceeding on the assumption that President Johnson will be elected, states that Udall will step down and be replaced in the cabinet by another Westerner.

Magyar told the league meeting that "if you elect me now you will spare the people of Monterey County the cost of a special election" to find a successor to Farr.

In another feature of the program, congressional candidates Sanford H. Bolz and incumbent Burt L. Talcott engaged in debate. Democrat Bolz pursued a track of trying to link Talcott to Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater while Talcott stuck to defending his record in Washington.

Supervisory candidates Chester Deaver and Warren Church from the 1st (North County) District also appeared. As an incumbent, Deaver said he was running on the basis of his experience and his belief that county government has been good. Church said the county has failed to develop a sound recreational program and is wasting money by advertising through chamber of commerce groups.

Talcott-Bolz Debate Highlights Forum

By ERIC BRAZIL

Sparks flew Tuesday night as Republican Congressman Burt L. Talcott and his Democratic adversary, Attorney Sanford Bolz, had their first protracted public confrontation in the current election campaign.

Talcott, Bolz and five other candidates for election on Nov. 3 aired their views at a candidates' forum sponsored by the League of Women Voters and the American Association of University Women. Two hundred fifty persons attended the forum at the Washington Junior High School multi-purpose room to see and hear what was probably the liveliest local political show in a very political year.

Democratic State Sen. Fred Farr of Carmel, Republican senatorial candidate Stephen G. Magyar of Pacific Grove, Republican Assemblyman Alan G. Pattee, incumbent first district supervisor Chester Deaver and Deaver's challenger, Warren Church, participated in the forum. Democratic Assembly candidate Irby E. Bourriague of Felton wasn't there, although he had said he would be. He was attending a Santa Cruz dinner honoring Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh.

Big Show

The Talcott-Bolz confrontation was the big show, for the two candidates were in clear disagreement over no less than six issues: Talcott's brand of conservatism, Bolz's newness to the district, Proposition 14, Medicare, the war on poverty and federal aid to education. Bolz, with debating technique, had Talcott on the defensive most of the evening.

Biggest round of applause went to the old warhorse, Pattee, when he said that he had worked with Assemblyman Byron Rumford and "handled the Rumford Act on the Republican side—and I am proud to have done it."

Bolz said that Talcott, in his first term in Congress, voted against the Kennedy and Johnson administrations 90 per cent of the time on key bills, that he is a supporter of the presidential candidacy of Sen. Barry Goldwater and that his voting record "rates 100 per cent with the John Birch Society—and I'm prepared tonight to support that assertion."

Talcott said that he is not and never has been a member of the John Birch Society and that, in any case, the Society doesn't rate Congressmen.

Bolz rejoined that Talcott's answer was "silly" for I have never accused him of being a member of the John Birch Society. DEBATE Page 2, Col. 3

ciety, and he knows it." But, he said, Americans for Constitutional Action, "exposed" in the House and by the Council for Civic Responsibility as a Birch front, rated Talcott's voting record 100 per cent in March, 1964. Bolz said that the idea that Talcott and Goldwater are conducting separate campaigns is more or less a grammatical fiction. Talcott's voting record, Bolz said, "is identical to Goldwater's. He has said 'Barry and I understand each other, and I'm sure they do.'"

Cites Experience

Talcott cited his long experience as a public servant in Monterey County, his familiarity with the district and said emphatically that "I was here" to help the county solve its water and farm labor problems.

He chided Bolz for his relatively brief (4½ years) residency in the district and pounced on a reference to a "pauper's oath" by his opponent. "There is no such thing as a pauper's oath in California," he said. "Maybe there is in New York or Washington, but not here." Talcott said that, as a Congressman, he has tried to "represent my district in Washington," and that Bolz might view the representation question in reverse.

Asks Debate

Bolz said that he has been in the district long enough to study and learn about its problems and that "I would be happy to match my knowledge of the district against Mr. Talcott's anytime he cares to debate me." Besides, Bolz said, California, which has more non-native born residents in it than any other state in the union, isn't likely to hold his recent arrival against him. "The love of a man for his adopted state may be greater than that of a man who was born right here," he said.

Other points of difference between Talcott and Bolz:

Proposition 14. Talcott said that he had not had sufficient time to study the measure, that it was a state issue, that he "would be neglecting my federal responsibility" by getting embroiled in the Proposition 14 controversy, that it "should not be a partisan issue" and that, therefore, he was taking a neutral stand on it. Bolz said he is "completely opposed" to Proposition 14 and that he could not understand "how any decent man who pretends to be a friend of civil rights can accept an amendment which would enshrine bigotry as a constitutional command."

Talcott said in his opening statement that he had voted in favor of the historic civil rights bill—as well as for the tax cut. In response to a question "why did you hesitate before voting for the civil rights bill?" Talcott said that he voted on it the first time it came onto the floor of the House, that it was a weighty and difficult bill, and that "if anybody thinks I hesitated, I'm glad I did."

War on Poverty. Talcott said he voted against it as a politically-inspired program frequently duplicative of other programs. He said the war on poverty bill was "hastily concocted" and that the problem could be dealt with in other ways, stressing individual training and union-management responsibilities.

"Doubletalk"

Bolz said that Talcott's answer to the war on poverty question was "a lot of doubletalk." He said that it is a "national disgrace" that one-fifth of the nation's population lives in poverty and that a government which spends $50 billion for defense can easily afford $1 billion "to pump purchasing power into the hands of the poor," because "this is good morals and it is good, sound business sense."

Medicare. Talcott said that "we need medical aid for the aged" but that it should not be tied into the Social Security system. He said that a 12th Congressional District questionnaire revealed to him that "71 per cent of the people want medical care for the aged," but that they are "overwhelmingly against" linking it to Social Security via the King-Anderson bill.

Bolz said that financing Medicare through Social Security is sound and desirable and that "it would not bankrupt the (Social Security) system." He said that "those people who oppose the King-Anderson bill and say that it doesn't go far enough are really those who don't want to go far at all."

Federal Aid to Education. It should be on a "selective basis" Talcott said, and used only when the job can't be done better on the local level. He feared federal control of public education, and that "don't let anybody fool you"—federal financing means federal control.

Bolz said that "we have had federal aid to education since 1785," that Monterey County gets it, uses it and needs it in large amounts, and that County Supt. of Schools Ed Coffin had assured him that the federal money has not brought federal control.

Farr, Magyar Speak

Farr, who arrived an hour late, cited his long legislative experience and record of productive legislation, chided Magyar for once supporting the "Liberty Amendment" to abolish the income tax and said that Magyar's suggestion that there should be a state lottery—through the racetracks—to support the prison system was "foolish and ill-considered."

Magyar said that he didn't support the Liberty Amendment, that he has thrown his hat in the political ring to make certain that "Sacramento only does for us what we can't do better for ourselves here in Monterey County." He said he believes that: "There is no such thing as something for nothing. The harder you work, the luckier you get. And don't complain about anything unless you're prepared to do something about it."

Magyar said that Farr may be "headed for bigger and better things," i.e. a high federal appointment, and that if he is re-elected "I'll bet we'll have to have a special election."

Supervisory Speakers

Deaver like Talcott, Pattee and Farr said he was running on his record. In his 12 years as a supervisor Deaver said he has helped Monterey County to maintain a high level of services at a very low per capita cost. He pointed with pride to his services on statewide taxation, highways, water resources and health and welfare committees.

Church criticized Deaver for having done nothing with respect to a county park for Monterey County and said that he was against public subventions to private agencies like the Chamber of Commerce to which the county regularly contributes.

What's

Farr and Brown

Editor, The Herald:

You stated (News Comments, Oct. 21) that Fred Farr was an influential legislator. However, he was not influential enough to protect Monterey County against Pat Brown. After all, the more opposition elected to the legislative branch, the less goofy laws will be imposed upon us. A vote for Fred Farr is a vote for Pat Brown.

You listed favorable comments regarding Steve Magyar, but you left the impression he was not experienced. After all, he led the Community Chest drive last year to a most successful conclusion. This position required a man who gets things done with the cooperation of many people.

Gov. Brown rode his horse over a prostrate Monterey County to joust with meningitis. Fred Farr did not prevent this injustice.

If you are unable to endorse Steve Magyar, please recommend to your readers that we vote for Don Quixote. At least Don Quixote never rode his horse in Monterey County.

ROBERT WAHL,

For State Senate

Fred S. Farr

Democrat, Incumbent

For over nine years, I have been privileged to serve Monterey County in the State Senate of California. I am seeking re-election on my record of accomplishments and the representation I can continue to provide as eighth among 40 senators in seniority, as chairman of the Education, Agriculture, Judiciary and Elections Committees as well as serving as a member of the joint Senate-Assembly committee for the revision of our state constitution.

Some of my legislative successes are: establishment of the state scenic highways systems, our humane slaughter law; obtaining an appropriation of $3,820,000 for recreational development at the San Antonio Dam; securing unemployment insurance for fishermen; obtaining funds for Monterey County's Boys Ranch; inclusion of Asilomar in the state parks system; protection of the tion matters, and I am now the legislative chairman of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, and as such, the only Californian to serve on the executive committee of this important interstate legal body.

I am a member of the Seaside Rotary Club, the Monterey Elks Club, the American Bar Assn., as well as the State and Monterey County Bar Assns., the Commonwealth Club of San Francisco, trustee of the Foundation for Environmental Design, and recently I was named honorary life member of the Sierra Club.

I am a resident of Carmel and a Democrat. Mrs. Farr and I have three children, one in college, one in the Peace Corps and one in high school.

The people are familiar with my record. I believe they will re-elect one who has established a working relationship with his legislative colleagues both Republican and Democratic which enables him to continue representing effectively all the people of Monterey County.

No Plans To Close Fort Ord

Army headquarters in Washington is appealing to congressional members and community leaders in California for help in quieting public fears over the meningitis situation at Fort Ord.

The Associated Press learned at the Pentagon today that Army Secretary Stephen Ailes has sent out a letter expressing concern over public pressure on the Army to close the fort, or at least stop all recruit training there, because of the disease.

Some of the Pentagon officials call the reaction in California to the meningitis situation at the fort "hysteria," saying that it has been magnified out of all proportion.

A high Pentagon officer said "no serious consideration is being given to terminating all activity at Fort Ord."

Local Attitudes

Secretary Ailes letter reads in part:

"It appears that local attitudes are forcing curtailment (at Fort Ord) beyond those for which even a remote medical justification exists and that they could ultimately necessitate closing the post on a permanent basis.

"Your help in calming fears would be appreciated."

It is assumed that by "local" the secretary means the attitude of residents of California, not including those of Monterey County, and Oregon. The Army has received the full backing of the Monterey County Medical Assn. Several Monterey Peninsula organizations also have taken formal action in support of the Army's handling of the situation.

Only one civilian case of meningitis has been reported in the county this year and there has been no "hysteria."

and 15 deaths, all but one trainees.

Army officials in Washington today said the cycle of the disease is up through out the country, especially in California, which supplies a majority of the recruits at Fort Ord.

Murphy Cleared In Attack

On Salinger

LOS ANGELES (UPI)

The California Fair Campaign Practices Committee today condemned literature attacking Sen. Pierre Salinger's loyalty but cleared his Republican opponent of any responsibility in the matter. (See story page 9.)

Paul Vebien, co-chairman of the bipartisan state committee, issued a statement by the board following a series of statewide conference calls. It said in part:

"The committee condemns the scurrilous literature attacking the loyalty of Sen. Pierre Salinger and his parents that has come to light in the closing days of the campaign. The committee emphasizes that it has no evidence that this smear material was issued with the knowledge or consent of Sen. Salinger."

Fred Farr: A

In sum, then, Senator Farr is a key member of the legislature. He is a knowledgeable attorney, which is no disadvantage when it comes to writing legislation.

Going back a bit, it was Farr, in a Fort Ord case, who won the right to vote for military personnel living on government property, a landmark case.

He has at heart the best interests of Monterey County, as well as the future of the state, to see that development is orderly, imaginative and studied.

He has not failed those who re-elected him four years ago. In fact, his record has been a growing asset.

We endorse him, and urge his re-election to another term.

FKA

Mr. and Mrs. George Linden told officers that while they were at the rear of the motel compartment, where their car was parked, a youth entered through the front, grabbed Mrs. Linden's purse from the bed where she had placed it.

In short, we believe he deserves re-election.

Farr Helps His District

Among the choices facing voters on the ballot Nov. 3 is that between Senator Fred Farr, Democrat, and his challenger, Stephen Magyar, Republican.

Senator Farr, through his several terms in Sacramento, has gained a seniority and a place on committees that has made him effective in representing the people of Monterey County.

Particularly, Farr has assisted in local projects—such as introducing and carrying legislation to bring $3,820,000 to the county for development of recreation at San Antonio dam and the legislation that would have permitted the dam bond vote to pass by a simple majority, rather than a 2/3 vote; he used his influence for confirmation of the freeway routing desired by King City; he worked with Assemblyman Alan Pattee to obtain wildlife-conservation funds for Nacimiento Lake; he introduced and obtained passage of a resolution calling for a national minimum farm wage and supported a gradual, rather than the abrupt, phase-out of the bracero program.

When many Valley people, who own summer homes on the Arroyo Seco, were concerned about the state's intention to locate a prison camp in that recreational area, Senator Farr used his influence to prevent its location.

He was able to do this because of his seniority and the considerable influence he has earned in Sacramento and the respect in which he is held by his fellow legislators.

We think his value to residents of Monterey County as an advocate on local matters outweighs any purely partisan political consideration.

For that reason we urge the retention as state senator of Fred Farr.

SALINAS CALIFORNIAN Wednesday, October 28, 1964 Page 6

The Californian Endorses Sen. Fred Farr

State Sen. Fredrick S. Farr, the Carmel Democrat who represents Monterey County in the California legislature's upper house, ranks eighth in Senate seniority and perhaps first in effectiveness.

Consider but a few of his more recent accomplishments:

—The conception, drafting, introduction and stewardship of a bill establishing a state-wide scenic highways system, in which the Coast Highway in Monterey County is the first link.

—A $3,820,000 recreational grant of state funds for the recreational development of San Antonio dam in addition to other important assists.

—Successful opposition to the plan by the state departments of corrections and forestry to establish a prison conservation camp in the Arroyo Seco area.

—Chairmanship of the Senate Fact Finding Committee on Natural Resources, which, in probing into the Long Beach tidelands situation, set in motion the forces that will bring the general fund of California between $350,000,000 and $500,000,000 in new tidelands oil revenue in the next few years.

Fred Farr has done more than that—a lot more. He has gone to bat for the fishermen of Moss Landing and Monterey, for the farmers of the Salinas Valley and for the cattlemen of southern Monterey County. He represents all of the people, and he gets things done.

There are six Monterey County people represented on six important statewide boards and commissions, all of whom were recommended to the governor for appointment by Senator Farr. Three of them are Democrats.

Farr is chairman of the Senate's standing committee on Natural Resources and a senior member of the Agriculture, Judiciary and Elections committees. He is also one of three Senators on the state constitutional revision commission.

The Californian has opposed Farr in the past—and undoubtedly will again in the future on specific issues; but it believes that he should be re-elected on Nov. 3. Likewise, the Californian has worked closely with Senator Farr on items seriously affecting Monterey county. He has always willingly and expeditiously assisted with his energy and his valuable experience in Sacramento. His outstanding record of legislative accomplishment compels both respect and support. Monterey county will not find a better, harder working or more accessible State Senator than Fred Farr.

Farr's Republican opponent, Pacific Grove businessman Stephen G. Magyar, has won a good many friends in Monterey County with a breezy, un-hackneyed campaigning style that has been one of the delights of a rather tedious campaign. We predict that with a little seasoning, he will make an effective public servant. But Sacramento, with the Senate reapportionment bill—which threatens Monterey County—on tap, is going to be a very rough place in 1965 and no place for a political beginner.

Monterey county already is represented by one of the best men in the State Senate. Why switch? The Californian, whose policy has kept it politically independent for scores of years, recommends retaining Senator Farr in Sacramento for another term.

Editorial

The Bee Recommends . . .

If you could vote "no" for President, this is probably what we'd recommend. But since you can't, and we're expected to make a recommendation we'll take the Democratic slate of Lyndon B. Johnson and Hubert H. Humphrey over Republican Barry M. Goldwater and William E. Miller for the two highest offices in the land. And we do this with reservation. However, with preservation of mankind at stake, we can make no other choice.

For U. S. Senator, we choose Republican George Murphy for U. S. Senator. We think Murphy knows California's problems better than Democrat Pierre Salinger (fresh from Washington) and that Murphy's business background qualifies him better for representing the largest state in the union in Washington.

Burt L. Talcott, Republican candidate for U. S. Congressman deserves to be returned to Washington. We believe Burt is sincere and although we have not agreed with his voting on several occasions, we still feel he is more important to this agricultural area than his Democratic opponent, Sanford Bolz, of whom we know little.

Without reservation, we choose State Senator Fred Farr, Democratic incumbent, to be returned to Sacramento. Fred has done a good job for Monterey county and has real interest in Soledad and its problems. He has been a big help in promoting Pinnacles West Side improvement and is currently attempting to help the city in its Front street hassle. We choose Senator Farr over Republican Building Contractor Steve Magyar whose political qualities are unproven.

Alan G. Pattee, despite his recent erratic actions in regard to the state lottery proposition, probably is the best bet to be returned to the State Assembly representing the 34th district over his little-known Democratic opponent Irby E. Bourriague, Santa Cruz county contractor.

Propositions

The Bee made its recommendations and the reasons why in the last issue of the Bee in the Buzzin' 'round column. We stand pat on all our recommendations except on No. 14, showing that we are flexible in changing our minds, too. Although we are for repeal of the Rumford act, upon further study of the proposed amendment we have been convinced that a "No" vote is best on Prop. 14. The act not only rescinds the Rumford act but all state fair housing laws and, worse yet, prohibits forever, without another amendment voted by the people, any legislation by city, state or county elected officials, regarding the matter of fair housing. This is wrong.

So, our amended recommendations follow:

The Rustler Recommends

MURPHY FOR SENATOR

Even though carpetbagging has been ruled permissible on legal technicality—it is not ethically right. Pierre Salinger has no moral right to be the senator from California.

But that is just one of the reasons Californians should vote for George Murphy. The recent debate between the two men pointed up some differences in ability as well as political philosophy.

Salinger has a firm grasp on the Kennedy coat-tails, uttering the magic name with each breath, and in the debate as throughout the campaign, fails satisfactorily to defend the Johnson administration against Murphy's observations about managed news, manipulated investigations, impingement upon the free press, the propriety of foreign aid to Russia's allies.

Most important is the threat to our local economy involved in the termination of the bracero program. Salinger talks about a farm problem and defends the Democratic congressional action. Murphy recognizes the dangerous impact to California of the bracero cancellation and urged a one-year extension.

Salinger has repeatedly tried to attribute Goldwater's views to Murphy, but the latter has unequivocally stated his differences with the presidential nominee on such issues as civil rights.

Vote for George Murphy for U.S. Senator.

VOTE FOR BURT

Somehow, when one hears Congressman Burt Talcott talk about his activities in congress, about his views on current issues, about his hopes for the American people and his understanding of the obligations a representative has to those who elect him, he seems to stand as the epitome of the dedicated public servant.

In fact, those who know Burt well sometimes have the feeling that, if he bled a little, the drops would come out red, white and blue.

But in Burt, there is nothing phony about this Eagle Scout posture. His naivete may show through, but it is a refreshing breath of good clean air into what most of us believe can be a pretty sordid affair—politics.

Congressman Talcott's voting record in the 88th Congress is a good one, measured by this newspaper's standards, certainly.

We cite his continued efforts in behalf of the bracero program; he's continually voted for economy in government and, while favoring a tax cut, believes it should be contingent upon reducing unnecessary expenses; he believes in "selective foreign aid" rather than indiscriminate grants and gifts and thinks we should export ideas—such as free enterprise, home rule, individual initiative; he voted for Civil Rights and has said, "the law may guide, but only people can eliminate prejudice."

For these, and other reasons, we strongly recommend the re-election of Burt Talcott as our representative in Washington.

ANOTHER TERM FOR ALAN

For 10 years now Monterey County has had a loud, positive voice in the state assembly. There's been no question as to where Alan Pattee stands on the issues—he takes a position, states it clearly, and always in a voice that is bound to be heard.

It has been said that his opponent appears to be a good natured, well meaning, but rather shy, inarticulate, vague candidate. We wouldn't know for the Democratic candidate hasn't made much of a splash in SoMoCo, our knowledge no campaigning in the Valley.

Pattee, on the other hand, is a frequent visitor to SoMoCo—during off years as well as election years. He meets with leaders of both parties and carries the ball when it's handed to him.

As an influential member of the agricultural committee for the assembly (chairman until bumped last year in Unruh's purge of Republicans), Alan is a sympathetic voice for our ag interests. He's also a businessman with conservative ideas on spending.

We disagree with Pattee in his espousal of the particular lottery on the Nov. 3 ballot, but it certainly would not be logical to cast aside all the good Alan does because of disagreement on this one item.

Without reservation we recommend Assemblyman Alan Pattee for re-election.

FRED FARR FOR SENATOR

A newspaper publisher, with whom we have not always agreed, but whom we certainly respect, has written "There are certain advantages in having a voice in court, even if the court is that of Pat Brown."

This was Col. Allen Griffin in his Monterey Herald. He was writing about Fred Farr and this time we wholeheartedly agree with the Colonel.

The Rustler editorially endorsed Farr for re-election as our state senator last week because we believe that his value to residents of this county on local matters far outweigh any purely partisan considerations.

In giving Farr their recommendation the Monterey Herald, too, places emphasis on the fact that "the senator has done an excellent job of representing his constituents."

This is tough to believe, with a $5 million bond issue. But the present $1.78 tax rate includes 10 cents for capital improvements.

The county would use this 10 cents to pay off the bonds.

We think this is the way to do it. For years the county has operated on a "pay-as-you-go" plan in regard to construction. But it won't work this time. These facilities are needed now, not 10 years from now when we can save up the money. Construction and land costs are going to rise during that 10 years. We aren't going to save anything by waiting.

One alternative method of financing is to issue bonds for the construction of a new school building. This would make it possible for corporations to bring such slick schemes to the ballot by initiative.

milk $65 million in 10 years from Californians for a private corporation.

If a state lottery is ever to be seriously considered as a means of alleviating the heavy tax burden on property owners in this state, it must be a state-owned lottery, one which would profit only the needs of state government, not the purses of private profiteers.

Vote No on Prop. 16—and Yes on 13, which would make it impossible for corporations to bring such slick schemes to the ballot by initiative.

State senate race(s)

IF WE have reservations about candidates for the U.S.
Senate, we happily have none about candidates for the State Senate.

In Santa Cruz and San Benito Counties, for instance, there isn't even a partisan choice to be made. Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, was so formidable an opponent that no Democrat reared his head last spring, even in a year of a Democratic registration upsurge. This is a tribute not only to Mr. Grunsky's vote-getting ability and seniority, but also to his ability to represent his district, and therefore a complimentary vote is in order.

In Monterey County the Republicans have taken aim on State Sen. Fred S. Farr, D-Carmel. Stephen G. Magyar of Monterey is a political wisecracker beyond compare, a highly intelligent and conscientious citizen, an excellent speaker, and an old personal friend of ours.

But Mr. Magyar seems to be running against Gov.
Brown instead of Sen. Farr. And he proudly proclaims himself "a great promoter of discrimination," which we'd hardly think qualifies a man to deal with affairs of state in a period such as this.

Sen. Farr, on the other hand, has nine years' experience in the senate, has worked well with an assemblyman of the opposite party, and has handled his job conscientiously and without blowing the trumpet. We think he deserves reelection, and we think he'll get it.

Wide Range for County Voters

By EARL HOFELDT

Monterey County's voters tomorrow will end the 1964 election campaign by balloting in contests from county supervisor to President of the United States.

They also will pass on a $5.5 million county bond issue, 17 state propositions and if they are residents of the City of Monterey will vote on 16 amendments to the 1925 city charter.

More than 64,000 of the county's 75,326 registered voters are expected to go to the polls. A total of 323 precincts will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

A sidelight feature to the election will be the use of voting devices in the City of Monterey. The machines, called Votomatics, will be used in Monterey's 37 polling places but nowhere else in Monterey County.

Forecast

County Registrar Norabelle Wright today forecast a county-wide turnout of 86 per cent. This would be an excellent response although a smidgin below the 88.3 turnout for the Nixon-Kennedy election in 1960.

During the hours of voting, liquor stores and bars will be closed. Federal, state, county and city offices will be closed during the day.

In the key contest on the ballot, county voters will join the rest of the nation in choosing between President Lyndon B. Johnson and Arizona Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater for the highest office. Democrat Johnson is given the best chance of any presidential candidate of his party to carry the county since Franklin D. Roosevelt turned the trick against Thomas E. Dewey in 1944.

Other Races

Other partisan races pit George Murphy, Republican, against U.S. Senator Pierre Salinger, Democrat, for the office held by Salinger as a result of appointment; State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) against GOP challenger Stephen C. Magyar of Pacific Grove; Assemblyman Alan G. Pattee (R-Corral de Tierra) against Democratic opponent Irby E. Bourriague of the board, will off the challenge of Warren Church of Hidden Valley.

The 17 state propositions are highlighted by the emotion-laced Proposition 14, the initiative to strip the Legislature of power to pass laws in the field of housing. It would repeal the Rumford Housing Act.

Other propositions of major interest are 15, an initiative to prohibit subscription television; 16, the state lottery initiative endorsed by Assemblyman Pattee and 17, the initiative intended to curb so-called "featherbedding" on railroads.

Propositions 1, 2 and 3 are bond issues intended to finance acquisition of beaches and parks and the expansion of school and college facilities. As such, they also are of vital importance.

County Bond

The $5 million county bond issue includes $1 million for a courthouse annex in Monterey. It also would provide funds for expansion of the courthouse in Salinas, improvements at the county hospital and at other county facilities. A two-thirds vote is needed for passage.

The majority of the City of Monterey charter amendments are routine and technical, simply included for purposes of modernizing the 9-year-old charter.

But at least four of the measures are controversial. They are Proposition G, prohibiting a holdover councilman from running for mayor; Proposition H, setting a $20 per month salary for councilmen; Proposition I, allowing the waiving of reading of ordinances and Proposition P, allowing non-residents to serve as ex-officio members of city boards.

County voters additionally will be asked to ratify election of three state judges, including Paul Peek as an associate justice on the California Supreme Court.

Several local elections in North County and Salinas Valley will confront voters of those areas.

Midnight

Miss Wright said she expects most of the vote counting in Monterey County to be completed around midnight. Counting in the primary was generally complete at that hour, she said, adding that the November ballot is simpler.

She anticipates no trouble with the voting machines in Monterey. She said that Monterey election boards have been well-briefed and "I think things should work smoothly."

Because of the use of the machines, no partial tallies will be available at any Monterey precinct. Instead, all City of Monterey counting will be done by aid of an IBM computer at the California Test Bureau plant.

GOP, Demo Chiefs Predict Victory

Monterey County's Republican and Democratic central committee chairmen don't quite agree on what's going to happen in tomorrow's election.

The Herald today called Karl V. Christerson of Salinas, the GOP chairman and Dr. Robert Bowersox of Monterey, the Democratic leader, for their predictions as to the outcomes of races for president, congress, state senate and assembly.

Dr. Bowersox said that the Democratic ticket of Lyndon B. Johnson and Hubert H. Humphrey would carry the county "overwhelmingly" against the Republican presidential slate of Barry Goldwater and William Miller. Christerson said the presidential race in the county would be "very close."

Bowersox said that State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) would win "very handily" against his GOP opponent, Stephen G. Magyar of Pacific Grove. Christerson saw this contest as "a real horse race."

The Republican chairman was more positive on the congressional and assembly races. He said that Republican Congressman Burt L. Talcott of Salinas will defeat Democrat Sanford H. Bolz of Salinas easily and predicted that Assemblyman Alan G. Pattee (R-Corral de Tierra) will breeze past Irby E. Bourriague, Felton Democrat.

Bowersox said that Talcott-Bolz and Pattee-Bourriague "will be close."

Monterey County Election Turnout Predicted Heavy

The Monterey County electorate votes Tuesday in the 1964 general election. Polls are to be open from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. There are 75,326 registered voters in Monterey County, and at least 86 per cent of them are expected to vote, according to the county elections department.

Here is the local election "menu":

For Congress, 12th District: Burt L. Talcott (R), incumbent, of Salinas; and Salinas attorney Sanford H. Bolz (D.)

For State Senate, 25th District: Fred S. Farr (D), incumbent, of Carmel; and Pacific Grove businessman Stephen G. Magyar (R.)

For State Assembly, 34th District: Burt L. Talcott (R), incumbent, of Salinas; and Monterey County attorney Alan G. Pattee (R), incumbent, of Monterey. Pattee is running on a platform of "Operation Eagle Eye," was launched last week by a group of Democratic Monterey County attorneys.

Optimistic Democratic leaders are predicting victory by a Democratic Presidential candidate in Monterey County for the first time since 1944, when Franklin D. Roosevelt defeated Thomas E. Dewey. Democratic Central Committee chairman Robert Bowersox predicts a "landslide" for President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Democratic optimism is based largely on two facts: Republican Presidential candidate Barry Goldwater received just 36.5 per cent of the Republican vote in losing in Monterey County to New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller in the June 2 primary election. And Democratic voter registration since June 2 has outstripped Republican registration by 2 to 1.

Republican Congressman Burt L. Talcott and Assemblyman Alan G. Pattee have completely disassociated themselves from the Goldwater for President campaign. On the Republican side, only state senatorial candidate Stephen G. Magyar has been given to proclaiming his adherence to Sen. Goldwater's principles during the campaign.

Monterey County's Deputy Registrar of Voters Miss Norah Wright said that perplexed voters, who can't figure out when or where to vote, or whether they're eligible to vote, can get the answers to their questions Tuesday by telephoning 24-6666, 424-7470, 424-5516 or 424-417 before 7 p.m. (These are special lines to the elections department, which will be in use mainly because the courthouse is to be closed Tuesday until 7 p.m., when the switchboard will be opened for election returns.)

State Senate Candidates Give Their Statements

My campaign for election is based on California's need for a strong two-party system. We are now so one-sided that I am concerned about our future. My Hungarian immigrant father raised me to believe these three precepts: (1) There is no such thing as something for nothing. (2) The harder you work, the luckier you get. (3) Don't complain about something unless you are willing to do something about it.

Here are two of my complaints:

1. Among the top 10 industrial states, California rates NUMBER ONE in combined state and local taxes — $419.38 for every man, woman and child in the state. Since 1959, the beginning of the Democrat administration, total state tax collections have jumped 71 per cent while population has risen only 24 per cent. During the same period, personal income tax

Monterey High Students 'Re-elect' Lyndon Johnson

By SUE VIVELL

Nearly a third of the Monterey High student body braved rainy weather to "elect" Lyndon B. Johnson president in a mock national election held last Wednesday. Johnson tallied a 2½ - 1 victory over Sen. Barry M. Goldwater.

In other contests, MHS voters "returned" Pierre Salinger to the U.S. Senate. Salinger was a 2 - 1 victor over opponent George Murphy.

Students also voted to "retain" Congressman Burt L. Talcott who, like Salinger, rolled up a 2 - 1 victory over his opponent, Sanford Bolz. State Sen. Fred S. Farr and Assemblyman Alan G. Pattee were also "re-elected" by similar margins.

As expected, MHS students soundly "defeated" Proposition 14. They also rejected Proposition 16 — dealing with the state-controlled lottery — and approved the anti-pay TV bill, Proposition 15.

Wednesday's voting highlighted a week of vigorous campaigning by Monterey High students which saw actual debates on the candidates and propositions.

Performing the task of counting ballots and verifying election returns was a committee comprised of Bob McCulley, Janis Gota, Cynthia Harris, Lindy Moore, Terry Bliss, Bruce Runyan, Sue Vivell, Charlene O'Donovan, and Lynn Carroll.

Heavy Peninsula Turnout

By EARL HOFELDT

Brilliant sunshine today greeted Monterey Peninsula voters who responded to the polls in the 1964 national election with a near-record 38 per cent noon hour turnout.

The noon response was only slightly behind the 39 per cent response recorded on the Peninsula for the 1960 Nixon-Kennedy election.

Meanwhile, voting machines in Monterey's 37 precincts were being well-accepted. A number of election boards were checked and few reported any problems with the "Votomatic."

Monterey Only

The voting devices are in use in every Monterey polling place but no where else in the county.

There were some reports of voting "shenanigans" in the Seaside area but apparently they were minor and isolated.

One report came into Seaside Democratic headquarters from a woman working as a maid in Carmel who said a man had offered her $1 to vote for Barry Goldwater for president.

There also were reports that some Seaside voters were being told over the phone that unless they brought their registration receipt slips to the polls they could not vote. Another report involved two women in Seaside who said they were told before going to the polls that they could not vote if they had not voted in the primary.

GENERAL BALLOT—12th CONGRESSIONAL, 25th SENATORIAL, 34th ASSEMBLY DISTRICT

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1964

INSTRUCTIONS TO VOTERS: To vote for a candidate of your selection for the office of Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, the office of Presiding Justice, District Court of Appeal, First Appellate District, Division Two, or the office of Justice, District Court of Appeal, First Appellate District, Division Two, stamp a cross (+) in the voting square after the word "YES," to the right of the name of the candidate. To vote against that candidate, stamp a cross (+) in the voting square after the word "NO," to the right of the name of that candidate.

To vote for any other candidate of your selection, stamp a cross (+) in the voting square next to the name of that candidate. Where two or more candidates for the same office are to be elected, stamp a cross (+) after the names of all the candidates for that office for whom you desire to vote, not to exceed, however, the number of candidates who are to be elected. To vote for all of the electors of a party, stamp a cross (+) in the square opposite the names of the presidential and vice presidential candidates of that party. A cross (+) stamped in the square opposite the name of a party and its presidential and vice presidential candidate, is a vote for all of the electors of that party, but for no other candidates. To vote for those electors who have pledged themselves to vote for a candidate for President and for Vice President of any party not qualified to participate in the election write in the names and party of those presidential and vice presidential candidates in the blank space provided for that purpose. To vote for a person not on the ballot, write his name under the title of the office in the blank space left for that purpose. To vote on any measure, stamp a cross (+) in the voting square after the word "YES" or after the word "NO." All marks, except the cross (+) are forbidden. All distinguishing marks or erasures are forbidden and make the ballot void. If you wrongly stamp, tear or deface this ballot, return it to the inspector of election and obtain another. On absent voter ballots mark a cross (+) with pen or pencil.

Remaining Votes

The only significant numbers of votes left to be tallied were in Los Angeles and Orange counties where Murphy was running almost 2 to 1 ahead; and San Diego, which gave him a steady 20,000-vote edge.

Returns from 27,479 of 31,498 precincts gave Murphy 3,079,720, Salinger 2,890,282.

Salinger, who served the late John F. Kennedy and President Johnson as press secretary, was appointed in August by Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown to serve out the unexpired five-month term of the late Democratic Sen. Clair Engle.

Murphy went into the fray facing a Democratic bulge of 1.5 million against him.

McGrath took his signs down wearing a slipper on one foot. Asked about it, he said he has an infected toe. He received the infection while campaigning door-to-door.

In approving Proposition 14, the state's voters rejected pleas from leaders of both political parties, labor unions and churches to defeat it.

Asks Program

Brown called on the California Real Estate Assn., which championed the initiative, to "come forward now with suggestions and programs for solving the discrimination which it professes to abhor and which it claims can be eliminated with voluntary efforts."

The initiative nullifies the state's controversial Rumford Act, passed narrowly in the closing minutes of the 1963 legislature, which outlawed racial discrimination in about 70 per cent of the housing in the state.

Going beyond simple repeal, it also assures owners "absolute discretion" to refuse to rent, lease or sell property to any person for any reason, and bars future housing discrimination statutes by either the state or local governments.

The real estate and apartment house owners associations had said the Rumford law was "forced housing" instead of "fair housing" as its backers had labeled it, and deprived owners of basic property rights.

'Team' Reelected

Pattee and Farr Win Again

By EARL HOFELDT

That Monterey County "team" of Democratic State Sen. Fred Farr and Alan G. Pattee of Corral Republican Assemblyman Alan G. Pattee of Corral de Tierra is going back to Sacramento.

Both men won reelection yesterday — Farr in something of a fight and Pattee in a breeze that has become traditional in his bids for election.

Farr defeated acoustical tiling contractor Stephen G. Magyar of Pacific Grove in the 25th senatorial district of Monterey County by 38,199 to 26,146. While the victory margin was by a landslide 59 to 41 per cent, Magyar did better than many expected and hung fairly close to Farr in the early counting.

Fourth Time

It was the fourth time the 54-year-old Farr has been elected to the Senate. He was first elected in a special election in 1955, then was reelected to four-year terms in 1956 and 1960.

Pattee, fun-loving and outspoken and quick to rise to the cause of a controversial issue, apparently can do no wrong as a campaigner.

This year he worked hard on behalf of Proposition 16, the state lottery initiative. It went down to an overwhelming defeat. But his espousal of this unpopular measure didn't hurt Pattee.

Almost 2 to 1

In the two counties of the 34th Assembly District (Monterey and Santa Cruz), Pattee defeated Felton contractor Irby E. Bourriague by 70,423 to 35,422, virtually 2 to 1.

Pattee's margin in Monterey County was 42,775 to 20,156. In the county the lottery initiative was defeated 40,415 to 20,066.

SALINAS — State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) ran up a huge vote of confidence in his race for re-election in the 25th District.

Farr, who was running for his third term, received 38,199 votes to 26,146 for his Republican opponent, Monterey businessman Stephen Magyar.

Magyar, who entered the race reluctantly, said in a statement conceding to Farr that he had just entered the political arena and "I'll be back in the races again."

There were some minor fuses, such as complaints that cars bearing political bumper stickers and placards were parked too close to polling places.

In a New Monterey precinct, a Democratic Party worker accused a member of the John Birch Society of politicking in the polling place and the Birch member charged that the Democrats had illegally parked with signs and placards for Democrats, within 100 feet of the polling place. The Democrat finally drove away and there was no further difficulty.

Salinas Californian
Sen. Fred Farr
Defeats Magyar
11-4-64

Sen. Fredrick S. (Fred) Farr was returned to the State Senate by the voters of Monterey County Tuesday with the biggest electoral endorsement he's ever had.

Farr, the 54-year-old Carmel Democrat who has represented Monterey County in the Senate since 1955, walloped Pacific Grove businessman Stephen G. Magyar, 38,199 to 26,146 to win re-election easily.

As the only Democrat holding a county-wide office in Monterey County, Farr has grown used to rather close races, such as that which he ran against Salinas Atty. William Bryan in 1960. Farr won that one by 6,828 votes.

Appreciates Confidence

Farr told the Californian that "I appreciate the confidence shown in me by the voters of Monterey County and wish to thank all of those who made my re-election possible. I shall do my utmost to give Monterey County the most effective representation in the State Senate."

Farr leaves Monterey County tomorrow for Washington, D. C., where he will confer with Asst. Secretary of the Army Dan Luevano about problems arising from the current meningitis outbreak at Ft. Ord.

The Senator also is scheduled to take part in a meeting of President Johnson's blue-ribbon Task Force on the Preservation of Natural Beauty in New York. Farr is one of nine members of the Task Force, and the only member who is a legislator.

Vote Expected

Magyar, who kept 'em laughing during a long and ultimately unsuccessful campaign, said today that "it was a lot of fun, and it came out pretty much as expected. After all, it was FARR Page 4, Col. 6

Total County Ballots Cast Hit 65,096

A total of 65,096 Monterey County voters cast their ballots in the 1964 general election Tuesday.

The election drew the largest voter turnout ever seen locally. But the percentage of registered voters actually voting—86.4 per cent—was a shade behind the percentages for the 1960 and 1956 general elections.

Miss Norabelle Wright, the county's deputy registrar of voters, picked the percentage of voter turnout right on the button. But she admitted that "early in the day I thought I'd underestimated, there were so many voting."

President Lyndon B. Johnson became the first Democratic Presidential candidate to carry Monterey County since 1944, when Franklin D. Roosevelt won over Thomas E. Dewey.

In fact Johnson's Monterey County edge was of authentic landslide proportions. He polled 61.79 per cent of the vote in burying his Republican opponent Barry Goldwater locally.

Johnson's smashing Monterey County victory over Goldwater even topped that scored by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower over Adlai E. Stevenson in 1956, when "Ike" pulled 59 per cent of the county vote.

Magyar said that he's definitely not through with politics. In fact "I'm starting to run again (for State Senator) tomorrow. I speak to the Monterey Rotary Club. Good exposure for the next campaign."

Congressman Burt L. Talcott (R-Salinas) won re-election to a second term in the House of Representatives Tuesday. The 12th Congressional District electorate accorded him a victory of landslide proportions.

Local Voters Follow National Trend

More than 90 per cent of the eligible voters in the five Soledad precincts turned out Tuesday and followed the national trend in giving President Lyndon B. Johnson and his team mate, Hubert Humphrey a landslide majority for the two highest offices in the United States. They voted 605 for the Democratic team to 283 for the Republican candidates, Senator Barry Goldwater and William Miller.

However, the tables were turned in the Mission district, with this traditionally Republican stronghold giving the edge to the Goldwater ticket, 123 to 108. Arroyo Seco (Mission Precinct 2) voted 35 for the Johnson ticket to 23 for Goldwater. All but two eligible voters turned out at the latter precinct.

The Mission district's two precincts also favored successful Republican candidate George Murphy over the short time incumbent, Pierre Salinger, by a vote of 187 to 104. Soledad's five precincts gave Salinger a big edge, 511 to 388. Murphy carried three precincts but the Democratic precincts of 3 and 5 gave Salinger a more than a two to one majority. Countywide, Murphy carried a 51 per cent vote.

Burt Talcott, Republican incumbent carried all precincts except Soledad No. 5, and polled 468 to 373 in Soledad five precincts. The Mission precincts gave Talcott almost a four to one majority (225 to 65). The overall total stood 693 for Talcott and 438 for Bolz. County-wide, Talcott received 65% of the vote cast.

State Senator Fred Farr was the only candidate to take a majority in all seven local precincts. Farr, a Democrat, polled 790 votes to Steve Magyar's 406 for the state seat. Farr received 60 per cent of the county total vote.

Republican Assemblyman

Alan Pattee took a majority in all precincts except No. 5 (southwest Soledad). He polled a total of 771 votes to Irby Bourriague 390 for the state assembly. Pattee carried 68 per cent of the county's vote.

County Measure A authorizing a $5 million bond issue for carrying out an extensive building program narrowly received the two-thirds majority necessary in the local area. Voters approved 677 to 324 — an edge of 29 votes. Countywide it was approved by a 67 per cent tally—39,019 for and 18,138 against.

On the 17 propositions, local voters generally followed the statewide trend. They voted in favor of the first three bond issues which also carried statewide. On controversial No. 14, the Rumford repeal act, the total local vote was 654 for repeal and 479 in favor of leaving it as is. This carried in all precincts except Nos. 3 and 5. Statewide the proposition carried about two to one.

Voters apparently believed the opponents of pay television, not only locally but statewide. The proposition banning pay TV carried here 743 to 355 and statewide received better than a two-to-one vote.

The lottery issue was clobbered in two ways. No. 13 forbidding a private company from being named in constitutional amendments was approved locally 551 to 351. Statewide it carried by a two to one majority. Proposition 16, specifically naming a corporation to run a state lottery for ten years was clobbered better than two to one statewide. Locally, the seven precincts voted it down, 664 to 374.

No. 17, a proposition against "railroad featherbedding", was approved statewide. The initiative, giving railroad companies latitude in limiting train crews was approved locally, 713 for and 377 against.

Leaders Agree

Local Electorate Ballots for Man

By ERIC C. BRAZIL

Monterey County political leaders, Republican and Democrat alike, agreed today after a 24-hour analysis of the general election results that no candidate can successfully ride political coattails in these parts.

The average Monterey County voter, as the election returns clearly demonstrate, is the despair of machine politicians — if any there be on the local scene. For he does in fact cast his ballot for the man, not the party.

When it comes to vote-getting, personality counts a good deal more than ideology in Monterey County. How else account for the fact that President Lyndon B. Johnson, biggest Presidential election winner in Monterey County since at least 1930, didn't help either of the fledgling Democratic candidates on the ticket with him a single bit?

Talcott Election

How else account for the landslide election of conservative Republican Congressman Burt L. Talcott for a second term in the House of Representatives, a House that will bear the LBJ brand prominently?

There is some evidence today that the Democratic party in Monterey may accentuate the personality, de-emphasize the ideology, when it comes to candidate selection time in 1966.

Dr. Robert Bowersox, chairman of the Democratic Central Committee, said that the election "proved to me that the voters in our county are independent voters, not party voters. . . ." This independence, he said, "should stimulate us to put up the best possible candidates we can find and to develop leadership and candidates on the lower echelons of government."

Public Service

In Dr. Bowersox's opinion, the Democratic candidates in Monterey County in 1966 for

Congress and for Assembly should, as a prerequisite to their candidacy, have lengthy records of public service. "The people will have to know from experience that they can produce," he said, adding that there is a substantial reservoir of untapped Democratic political talent in the county right now.

Republican Central Committee chairman Karl v. Christerson was, like Bowersox, inclined to minimize the importance of ideology and party lines in Monterey County elections. Christerson indicated that the doctrine, hairline conservatism of some of the adherents of Republican Presidential candidate Barry Goldwater hasn't in the past and may not in the future cut much ice with the local electorate.

Redouble Efforts

But D. Kirke Erskine of Carmel Highlands, president of the Monterey County Young Republicans, an organization which boosted Sen. Goldwater's candidacy early and ardently, said that the YRs simply plan to redouble their efforts to win a conservative voting majority in the next four years. The crushing defeat of Goldwater in Monterey County "was our fault," Erskine said. "We just didn't work hard enough." Erskine said he believes that Goldwater conservatism is a merchantable commodity and that the YRs are going to be able to sell it in quantity.

Mrs. James (Jean) Porter Thompson of Salinas, chairman of Citizens for Goldwater-Miller in Monterey County and governor of the United Republicans of California, Area 7, said that the conservative forces in the county are far from folding up their tents and leaving the political battlefield.

Uninformed

In Mrs. Thompson's opinion, the reason for Goldwater's lambasting locally was that "so many Republicans were uninformed and uneducated and didn't know the issues of the campaign" or had been misled into "accepting the socialistic trend" that has developed within the GOP. She said that it is the basic task for Republican conservatives to "make the people realize the real Republican principles."

Mrs. Thompson believes that UROC will play an increasingly important role in the Republican party's future locally.

233 Are Elected With Labor Help

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At least 233 House members — a bare majority — were elected Tuesday with the support of the AFL-CIO's political arm, a United Press International survey showed today.

Nine are Republicans and the rest are Democrats.

The labor federation's Committee on Political Education (COPE) also backed 116 candidates who were defeated in the 435 House elections across the country.

But its .670 batting average and the apparent net gain of 37 Democratic seats raised AFL-CIO leaders' hopes of repealing "right-to-work" laws in 20 states by congressional action next year.

COPE officials said they did not expect every congressman they endorsed to follow organized labor's wishes. But their first estimates indicated the size of the "liberal" bloc in the House may be increased by 25 or more votes in the 89th Congress.

Prospects Look Better

This also led to optimism at AFL-CIO headquarters on the prospects of passing such union-supported perennials as health care under Social Security and a boost in the $1.25 federal minimum wage.

In the Senate, the UPI analysis indicated that COPE endorsed winning candidates in 24 out of 30 races where it took a stand. This was a score of 80 per cent.

At the state House level, 15 contenders with COPE support were elected to governors' chairs and eight others lost despite the union endorsement.

Although the labor hierarchy was happy to pick up two Democratic "friends" in the Senate, it was the gains in the House that elated AFL-CIO president George Meany and his aides.

Better Position

They now feel organized labor is in a better position to move for repeal of "section 14-B" of the Taft-Hartley law that permits states to pass legislation banning the union shop.

Under union shop contracts, a worker must join the union within a certain period to hold his job. Labor leaders say such provisions are necessary to preserve industrial stability and make the union secure from possible employer harassment.

Proponents of "right-to-work" laws, however, claim that union shop agreements unjustly deprive an individual of the freedom to decide whether he wants to belong to a labor organization.

President Johnson Wins Easy Election Victory

Gonzales voters went along with the national landslide Tuesday in electing President Lyndon Johnson over U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater.

Gonzales tallied a total of 491 votes for Johnson with only 277 cast for his opponent. Voter turnout, however, in Gonzales was 61 short of the Kennedy-Nixon balloting here four years ago. A total of 829 cast their votes for president then as compared with 768 votes this year.

Gonzales voters went against the tide in the U.S. Senate race casting 403 votes for Pierre Salinger and 367 for George Murphy. Local voting on the offices of Congressman, State Senate and State Assemblyman agreed with the outcome, however.

In general, local voting followed the statewide trend in the numerous propositions. In the controversial Proposition 14 (anti-Rumford act) local voters cast 404 yes and 327 no.

Some happy results, some not so happy

FOR the moment, we'll leave it to the pundits to ponder the fate of the Republican party, and to decide whether it will remain in the conservative grip or be recaptured by the moderates.

In the California election returns, we find some things which are good and some which are not so good—as is only natural to any Californian who, like his forebears, exercises a high degree of maverickism in marking his ballot.

On the good side, insofar as it expresses the clear will of the people, we find the reelection of four legislators in the area, three of them opposed—Rep. Burt Talcott, Sen. Donald Grunsky, Sen. Fred Farr and Assemblyman Alan Pattee. Three Republicans and one Democrat, even in a year of Democratic registration gains and a presidential sweep, obviously have the confidence of their constituents.

We find it good, too, to read of the reelection of moderate Republicans to the Assembly, despite the party organization's refusal to help them because they were Rockefeller men before the convention. The Democrats have been prevented from taking over two-thirds of the Assembly, a margin which they already have in the Senate; and we find this a very healthy sign. We cannot mourn Pierre Salinger's defeat; his entry into politics was too obviously calculated outside California.

It's good to see that Californians, even in this season when tax bills come in the mails, acknowledge the need for things like parks and beaches, universities and school buildings, by approving bond issues for those purposes. And the good sense of voters of the Watsonville high school district was amply demonstrated in their approval of a unified system of education.

Californians are usually a canny lot who can spot phonies; and the overwhelming defeat of a scheme to set up a lottery with a juicy monopoly for a corporation is good news as well.

But Californians do make mistakes, often because the wording of ballot titles is confusing. Unfortunately, in our view, two major errors were made on Tuesday and very likely will have to be rectified in the courts.

The victory of Proposition 14, by a nearly 2-1 majority, does not indicate for one moment that Californians are ignorant or bigoted. It indicates, we think, that most voters thought the Rumford Act would interfere with their right to discriminate among purchasers or renters of all property, which was not the case. (The laws now repealed apply only to people in the housing business, plus those using government credit.) By a numerical coincidence, it seems clear to us that Proposition 14 is a clear violation of Amendment 14 to the Constitution. The pity is that California should have had to undergo this ordeal and pass a measure which cannot survive the test of equal-treatment.

The courts may have something to say about Proposition 15, too. By a substantial majority, Californians swallowed the propaganda of the theater owners (who wanted a monopoly on pay television) and in effect voted to prohibit anyone from going into the subscription-TV business. We don't think laws keeping men from starting new enterprises are in the American tradition; we don't believe the theater industry's threat that free TV would disappear if subscription TV started; and we have a hunch that the last word has not been said on this subject, either.

Even aside from the record-smashing presidential victory, this was a thoroughly fascinating election—as California elections have a way of being.

Army Won't Close Ord, Heaton Says

The Army has no intention of closing down Fort Ord permanently.

This was the assurance given State Sen. Fred Farr of Carmel yesterday in Washington by Lt. Gen.

Leonard B. Heaton, the surgeon general.

Farr told The Herald, Heaton said the Army considers Fort Ord one of the major training posts in the country, representing a tremendous investment which cannot be abandoned.

Farr stopped in Washington yesterday to confer with Army officials on reports closing of the post might be considered because of the meningitis problem there.

The senator now is in New York.

Heaton told Farr the outlook at Fort Ord is much better than it was several weeks ago. He indicated the measures taken to eliminate the disease there seem to be working, as similar measures worked at the San Diego Naval Training Center some years ago.

These measures have included stopping the input of trainees which will see training stopped entirely in December.

Heaton said this was done to reduce exposure among recruits and thus stop the spread of the disease.

However, the surgeon told Farr there was no assurance the incidence of meningitis would not increase at Fort Polk, La., where recruits from the West now are being sent.

Meantime, county officials and civic leaders this afternoon attended a briefing at Fort Ord where the problem was outlined for them by Maj. Gen. Edwin H. J. Carns, commanding general, and his staff.

Democrats Toast Victory Saturday Night in King City

SoMoCo Democrats will gather to congratulate themselves and their precinct workers at a no-host cocktail party Saturday, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. in the cafeteria building at the Salinas Valley Fairgrounds in King City.

According to Ed Burke, chairman for the event, all Democrats are cordially invited "to toast their sweetest success" and the first Democratic presidential victory in the area since Franklin Roosevelt defeated Wendell Wilkie in 1940.

The guest list includes State Senator Fred Farr; Dr. Robert Bowersox, chairman of the Monterey County Democratic Central Committee, and SoMoCo members of the MCDC William Smart and Bob McCandliss.

JFK Rites Sunday at Colton Hall

Memorial services for the late President John F. Kennedy will be held in front of Colton Hall Sunday, the anniversary of his assassination.

Plans for the rites were announced today by State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel), who is in charge of arrangements for the 3 p.m. event.

A Flag-raising by troops from Fort Ord, assisted by the Army band, a salute by a firing squad, the sounding of Taps and a fly-over by planes from the Naval Air Facility are planned.

Short talks also will be given by Max Tadlock of the Monterey Peninsula College faculty, who will read excerpts from the president's speeches, and by MPC President George J. Faul, who will tell of the significance of the Kennedy Library.

Selections from the poems of Robert Frost will be read by Rabbi Abraham Haselkorn.

A memorial concert will be held at the college music hall at 4 p.m. following the Colton Hall ceremony.

The public is invited to both events, Farr said.

THERE WAS NO REST FROM CAMPAIGN rigors for STATE Senator Fred Farr, who marked his tidy re-election last week by flying to Washington to consult with Surgeon-General Heaton on the state of affairs at Fort Ord and the meningitis problem. From Washington he flew on to New York for a meeting of President Johnson's Task Force for the Preservation of Natural Beauty, of which he is a member in company with such notables as John Kenneth Galbraith.

Memorial Service for President Kennedy at Monterey Sunday

A memorial service in the late President's honor of the late President, John F. Kennedy, will be held on the anniversary of his death in front of Colton Hall, Monterey, at 3:00 p.m. Sunday.

The program will begin with an invocation by Monsignor Ryan. The United States Army Band from Fort Ord will then play "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Hail to the Chief." This will be followed by Max Tadlock reading excerpts from the speeches of John Kennedy; Rabbi Abraham Haselkorn reading a favorite poem of the late President's; and George Faul, President of Monterey Peninsula College, speaking on "The Significance of the Kennedy Library."

The memorial service will conclude with a gun salute by members of the armed forces, a flight by a squadron from the Naval Air Facility, and a benediction by Rev. S. R. Martin.

Congressman Burt Talcott, Assemblyman Alan Pattee, the Mayors of all the cities in Monterey County, and the members of the Board of Supervisors as well as ranking military officers on the Monterey Peninsula have also been invited to participate.

Senator Fred Farr is serving as Chairman of the Kennedy Memorial Services.

Eulogize JFK

Some 500 Peninsulans gathered yesterday on the lawn of Monterey's civic center, as did other thousands across the country, to pay tribute to the memory of John F. Kennedy.

Representatives of the military joined with civilians in a simple, but impressive, ceremony in the brilliant Sunday afternoon sunshine.

Opened with a stirring arrangement of the National Anthem by the U.S. Army Band from Fort Ord, the simple, yet impressive, ceremony included the reading of a poem by Robert Frost, excerpts from some of the late president's speeches and a brief eulogy.

Taps echoing across the center concluded the rites.

Pays Tribute

In these and many other ways a thoughtful nation paused yesterday to remember, and pay tribute, on the first anniversary of President John F. Kennedy's assassination.

The tragedy that had reached around the world was relived around the world in solemn ceremonies, as hundreds of thousands put aside part of

Sen. Farr Urges Highway Beauty Before State C of C

SAN FRANCISCO—State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) yesterday urged the state to give greater emphasis to enhancement of roadside appearance in highway construction.

Addressing the State Chamber of Commerce, Farr said that "time is long overdue for a major shift of emphasis in our state highway program.

"In our haste to make our highways safe, we have forgotten or disregarded the amenities. . . .

"I believe that the enhancement of natural beauty adjacent to our highways should be spelled out by the legislature as one of the paramount factors in our highway construction program.

"Furthermore, California should take advantage of the provision of Section 319 of the Federal Highway Act, which grants to the states 3 per cent of the total state's allocation to be used for roadside beautification and roadside rests. California and most other states have not taken advantage of this money as yet and the legislature and the people should know the reason why."

Farr, chairman of a Senate fact-finding committee on natural resources, called billboards "an ugly blight on California's landscape. . . . We owe to ourselves and the people of California to enact in 1965 strong control of billboards adjacent to state highways.

Support

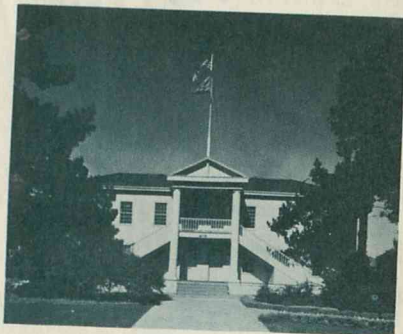

"I would hope that the State Chamber of Commerce in the interest of promoting tourism, if for no other reason, would back such legislation."

The senator also said that California should establish legislation providing for parkways.

"Many states in the nation are utilizing the parkway concept of elongated parks adjacent to highways for preserving the beauty of the countryside and for providing camping and other recreational facilities, rest stops, scenic overlooks and preservation of historical facilities."

Soil Group To Convene In San Diego

California agriculture's struggle to resist urban and suburban invasion of its prime lands will be aired throughout the 19th annual convention of the California Association of Soil Conservation Districts next month, Dec. 2 to 5, at the El Cortez hotel, San Diego.

"We are very much aware of the increasing population demands on our farmers and farm land," Sam Chinn of Salinas, president of the California Association said. "Our districts have gone to work on this problem and will through wise planning efforts on the use of our natural resources, soil and water, continue agriculture's service to the state as its number one industry."

Highlights of this event of which more than 500 farmers, state and federal agency people will attend, will be the principal address by Senator Fred Farr of Monterey County. Senator Farr, Chairman of the California Senate Committee on Natural Resources, will speak on "The Effect Urban Encroachment Has on Agriculture."

Another feature of the four-day convention will be a panel discussion Dec. 4 on the convention's theme, "California Agriculture Faces Facts."

Panelists will include farmers, cattlemen, economists, legislators, state and federal administrators and consultants in a variety of fields who will probe deeply into land use and related problems.

The session will wind up with a barbecue, Dec. 5 in the Rancho Jamul.

Judgeships Could Rescue Periled North State Solons

By Richard Rodda

Numerous northern state senators whose political futures are uncertain due to impending reapportionment are being mentioned for judicial appointment.

Governor Edmund G. Brown already has taken one step in this direction by announcing Senator Edwin J. Regan of Trinity County will become a member of the third district court of appeal, effective next year.

Regan will succeed retiring Justice Andrew Schottky of Sacramento.

Next in line for a judicial post is reported to be Senator Stanley Arnold of Lassen County. He would become a superior judge in his home county to succeed retiring Judge Ben V. Curler.

Heavy Load

Superior judgeships are expected to become available in 1965 in Sonoma and Humboldt Counties. Reports have reached the Capitol that the workload is so heavy in these counties, the legislature will be asked to create new superior court departments.

Senator Carl L. Christensen of Humboldt County would be a logical selection for the Humboldt opening. He was a superior judge before he came to the senate.

Senator Joseph A. Rattigan of Sonoma County is reported to be in line for a post in Sonoma County.

A vacancy on the first district appellate court in San Francisco also exists. This district runs along the coast from Monterey to the Oregon line. Christensen and Rattigan both would be eligible.

Other Attorneys

Other senators who also are attorneys and reside in this district include Fred Farr of Monterey County, Donald L. Grunsky of Santa Cruz County, Richard J. Dolwig of San Mateo County, Frank S. Petersen of Mendocino County, J. Eugene McAteer of San Francisco, Clark L. Bradley of Santa Clara County and John W. Holmdahl of Alameda County.

Dolwig McAteer, Bradley and Holmdahl are unlikely candidates, already living in counties which have sufficient population to justify their senate districts.

Other northern senators who have law practices and could be considered for judicial posts are Virgil O'Sullivan of Colusa County, James A. Cobey of Merced County and Alan Short of San Joaquin County.

The area north of Kern County now has 25 of the 40 state senators. Under the United States Supreme Court edict of one man, one vote, at least 15 of these districts are expected to be shifted to Southern California.

The naming of a number of senators to court posts is a strategy being urged upon the governor to soften the reapportionment impact upon the senate.

Realignment Of Key Positions Is Expected

A realignment of key positions in the state assembly is in prospect as the opening of the 1965 session of the legislature approaches.

Assemblyman James T. Mills of San Diego County is reported to have the inside track for chairman of the rules committee, succeeding Assemblyman Tom Bane.

Bane, who was defeated in his campaign for a congressional seat in Los Angeles County, may remain in government as a legislative consultant or appointive official. He is an insurance broker in Los Angeles.

Mills' present position as Democratic caucus chairman in the lower house may go to Assemblyman John T. Knox of Contra Costa County.

The Republican Party is engaged in a bitter fight for minority floor leader. Assemblyman Robert T. Monagan of San Joaquin County is a candidate to unseat Assemblyman Charles J. Conrad of Los Angeles County.

Assemblyman Don Mulford of Alameda County is a candidate for reelection as GOP caucus chairman.

Assemblyman Jerome R. Waldie of Contra Costa County is expected to retain his position as Democratic floor leader.

Speaker Jesse M. Unruh is expected to be reelected without opposition.

Apportionment problem is the senator's, too

STATE SEN. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, heartily disapproves of the "one man, one vote" measurement for the election of state senators — as, we think, do most Californians.

After all, citizens of the state have repeatedly endorsed the "federal plan" under which our legislature is now set up — assemblymen representing population, senators representing areas. The balance has worked well, as it has worked well in the federal Congress.

But "We will comply with the decision, one with which we heartily disagree," says the senator. It's the only thing to do. The U.S. Supreme Court has spoken on the principle; a three-judge federal court in California has ordered the redrawing of senatorial district lines.

The possibility of resistance is futile, Sen. Grunsky concedes. If the voters reject senate reapportionment, he wonders jokingly whether we'd all go to jail, then suggests the serious alternative — election at large of all members of the senate. That's probably the answer. It was the answer in Illinois when the legislature of that state failed to redistrict, and the blanket-sized ballot has just now been counted.

The domination of both houses of the Legislature by six southern California counties is as disquieting to us as it is to the Watsonville senator — but the possibility of a U.S. constitutional amendment seems a bit remote.

What's also interesting — and you may be sure Sen. Grunsky isn't unaware of it — is that the little district in which he has been so comfortably incumbent for all these years is about to disappear.

Under no circumstance of "one man, one vote" can a senatorial district be justified containing only Santa Cruz and San Benito counties. The district we're in is going to be a whale of a lot larger than that.

Assume, for instance, that redistricting would enlarge the senatorial district to include Santa Cruz, San Benito, Monterey and San Luis Obispo Counties. Not a bad district — but it has, at the moment, three state senators, none of whom seems inclined to step down.

Would Sen. Vernon Sturgeon, R-San Luis Obispo, be happy to leave the Legislature to make room for Sen. Grunsky? Not likely; he was just reelected. Would Sen. Fred Farr D-Carmel, step aside? Ditto.

So, taking only incumbents, there are three men who presumably would like to be the senator from the new district — and only one can be elected. The field could be narrowed to two if Sen. Farr would accept some other appointment from either the state or the national administration; but he shows no signs of being interested. As for Senators Grunsky and Sturgeon, their chances of appointive office are about as promising as their chances of being named to the team of astronauts; they are Republicans. Sen. Grunsky, in particular, would find it difficult to get the time of day from Gov. Brown.

The political picture is always changing. Time was when this district had a congressman who lived in San Mateo. Recently we've inherited an assemblyman from Salinas, through redistricting. And if the State Senate is redistricted, there's likely to be a whale of a scrap among at least three people for the one remaining job.

Farr Requests Greater Roadside Beauty Emphasis

SAN FRANCISCO — State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) Thursday asked the state to begin giving greater emphasis to roadside scenic beauty in highway construction.

Speaking before the State Chamber of Commerce, Farr said that the "time is long overdue for a major shift of emphasis in our state highway program. In our haste to make our highways safe, we have forgotten or disregarded the amenities . . .

"I believe that the enhancement of natural beauty adjacent to our highways should be spelled out by the legislature as one of the paramount factors in our highway construction program."

Farr also said that California should take advantage of a section of the Federal Highway Act which grants 3 per cent of the state's total allocation to the state for roadside beautification and roadside rests. The state has not taken advantage of this available money, Farr said.

Farr pushed hard for strong billboard legislation and said "I would hope that the State Chamber of Commerce, in the interest of promoting tourism, if for no other reason, would back such legislation."

Views Periled Redwoods

By EARL HOFELDT

State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) flew to California's north coast to view the mighty redwoods on Saturday.

The inspection was made by both plane and car.

In the course of the day, Farr saw shocking examples of man-wrought assaults and threatened assaults upon the world's tallest trees.

He saw vast areas where wanton cutting of virgin timber has stripped and scarred mountain ridges once thickly studded with redwoods.

He saw other areas where the State Highway Department intends to rip out redwoods — some over a thousand years old — for the purpose of building a freeway.

Senate Committee

Farr made the trip in advance of a meeting of his Senate Fact-finding Committee on Natural Resources. The committee will hold hearings tomorrow and Thursday in San Francisco on the topic: "Freeway Construction versus State Parks and Establishment of Parkways in California."

The senator, an ardent conservationist who feels the preservation of the redwoods is a national as well as a state issue, made the trip with Martin Litton, travel editor of Sunset Magazine.

Narrow Grove

Litton took Farr by rented auto to a point in Jedediah Smith State Park, just out of Crescent City near the Oregon border. At this site, a state-owned grove of virgin redwoods stands only a few hundred yards wide.

Yet, Litton explained, the highway department has adopted a freeway route which would split the grove, leaving only a thin fringe of trees on either side.

The trees which would be left, he noted, may well perish because the redwood has a relatively shallow root structure and when standing singly, or in a small group, is susceptible to destruction from winds.

Steeper Grade

More important, Litton pointed out that if the freeway line were moved a few hundred yards it could be taken completely out of the grove. But the highway engineers object, he said, because the alternate proposal would have a slightly increased grade and would be more difficult for lumber trucks to manage.

On completion of the trip, Farr said he could see a solution in legislation which would require that the highway department could not build a freeway through a state park without the approval of the State Park Commission.

National Park

Farr also viewed the Prairie Creek area south of Crescent City where the federal government is interested in creating a 22,000-acre redwoods national park.

The proposition is fraught with controversy. In the little town of Orick (Humboldt County), he found high community feeling over the proposal. People are pro-park or anti-park.

The anti-park movement is led by lumbering interests who want to continue stripping the hills of the great trees. The lumber people predict economic disaster if the government acquires the timber.

Tourist Impact

The pro-park group, organized only on a sub rosa basis at present — apparently for fear of social and economic boycott — sees a great tourist prosperity coming to the area within a few years if the park plan materializes.

The Prairie Creek area boasts of the tallest redwoods in the world — the No. 1, 2 and 3 trees. They were discovered as being tallest only a year or so ago. For many years, the 344-foot Founders Tree in Rockefeller Grove south of Eureka was regarded as highest.

But the giants of Prairie Creek are on land owned by Arcata Redwood Lumber Co. — and stand in danger of falling to the saw and ax.

SEN. FARR HEADS PUBLIC HEARINGS ON NATURAL RESOURCES

Senator Fred S. Farr (D), Monterey County, Chairman of the Senate Fact Finding Committee on Natural Resources, has scheduled a public hearing of the natural resources committee at 10 a.m. in Room 1194 of the State Building in San Francisco, today (Dec. 16) and Thursday, December 17 on the subject 'Freeway Construction vs. State Parks, and Establishing Parkways in California.'

"I feel this hearing is extremely timely," said Farr, "in consideration of the currently proposed highway alignments through Jedediah Smith and Prairie Creek Redwood State Parks, and in view of the proposal to establish a Redwood National Park with its impact on highway planning," he continued, "the entire subject involving the propriety of condemning any parks lands for highway development, whether they be local or state parks, should come under critical review. Since recreational space is becoming acutely deficient and also in view of the fact that the voters have approved the $150 million bond issue to secure more land for recreation, it would seem sheer folly," said Farr, "to acquire more land for this purpose and permit it to be condemned later for highway purposes."

Senator Farr said further that the hearing will be opened to comment on the establishment of the parkway concept in California. In the Eastern part of the United States elongated parks adjacent to important highways have provided an unusual driving and recreation experience on the national parkways, such as the George Washington Parkway and the Blue Ridge Parkway in the Shenandoahs. "The Palisades Interstate Parkway in New York and New Jersey," Farr said, "has had more than 50 years of successful operation. This concept should be given support in California."

"Since we are becoming more urbanized and our highways are extensively developed, the parkway concept must be extended to California. 'Also,' Farr said 'state law does not define the term 'parkway' and it is the committee's intention to draw from the extensive knowledge of persons versed in this concept to help to formulate legislation to permit the establishing of state parkways, incorporating those features which will contribute most to the scenic enjoyment of the traveling public."

Dr. David Levin of Washington, Consultant to the Secretary of Commerce on National Scenic Highways and Parkways will testify before the committee on Thursday, December 17. Members of the Sierra Club, Save The Redwoods League, county officials from Del Norte and Humboldt County, State Highway officials, and Senator Randolph Collier, Chairman of Senate Transportation Committee, have all been invited to testify.

Members of the Senate Natural Resources Committee are Senators Carl L. Christensen, Vice Chairman, Stanley Arnold, John C. Begovich, Paul J. Lunardi, John F. McCarthy, Eugene G. Nisbet, Virgil O. Sullivan, Frank S. Petersen, Aaron W. Quick, and Alvin C. Weingand.

U.S. Has Last Say on Roads In Redwoods

S.F. Examiner Bulletin, 12/17/64

Federal policies may well decide the issue of whether to run a freeway through redwood stands in Prairie Creek Redwoods State Park, it developed today.

And federal policy—as stated by Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall in a letter to Gov. Edmund G. Brown—is opposed to any route that would cut through the redwood country on or above Gold Bluff Beach.

The straws that show which way the wind may blow were tossed in the air at a hearing of a State Senate fact-finding committee on natural resources here.

ALFRED STERN, chairman of the State Parks Commission, which has favored a higher ridge-road to the east, through already logged countryside, recalled the existing policy that federally financed roads having an impact on state parks must be reviewed by appropriate state agencies such as park commissions.

Committee Chairman Fred S. Farr, Monterey Democrat, pointed out that the Interior Department plans a national redwood park that would include Prairie Creek Park, centered in northern Humboldt County.

He turned to Dr. David Levin, director of a scenic roads and parkways study for the Department of Commerce, who had testified earlier.

"DO YOU think the Bureau of Public Roads, before financing this freeway, will take these park values into consideration?" he asked.

"I am sure they will," Levin replied. "I am sure the non-economic, non-monetary park values will be carefully weighed under federal policy before any route in the vicinity of Prairie Creek is approved."

Since the federal government finances about 90 percent of California freeway construction costs, the scales would appear heavily weighted against the route Secretary Udall opposes.

EARLIER, Levin had looked into a statistical crystal ball and come up with some startling predictions for the future.

In a mere 35 years, he said, THE average American's disposable income will have doubled, he will be working only half his present hours—and he will enjoy longer vacations.

This will increase the demand for the average American's favorite recreation—driving around in his automobile.

BY THE YEAR 2000, Dr. Levin said, there will be 200 million automobiles in the U. S., and they will cover a billion miles a year.

And he added that as a result, the Commerce Department is spending $100,000 to decide what kinds of secondary and parkway roads the nation should be building.

ONLY ABOUT 1,100 miles of the federally financed roads are now designated as national parkways—scenic routes—as compared with 17,000 miles of high-speed interstate routes, Dr. Levin said.

Farr said the government should pay attention to beauty even on utilitarian highways.

Putting Reins On Freeway Developers

By Elmont Waite

The State Highway Commission should be stripped of its legal authority to take California park lands as it chooses for freeways, three top State executives declared here yesterday.

The three were Hugo Fisher, administrator of the State Resources Agency; Charles A. DeTurk, director of the State Department of Parks and Recreation, and Edward Dolder, chief of the State Division of Beaches and Parks.

Their testimony was given at a public hearing of the State Senate Committee on Natural Resources, headed by Chairman Fred S. Farr (Dem-Carmel). The hearing will continue through today at the State Building here.

DeTurk, although praising co-operation by the Division of Highways and the Highway Commission in the past, recommended "legislation prohibiting any encroachment onto State park lands without specific approval of the State Park Commission."

"We do not believe that the gasoline tax the public pays to get to its parks should be used to mar their enjoyment of those parks," he added.

He emphasized, however, that on 2500 miles of freeway programming, there are less than a dozen miles of routes on which highway chiefs and park chiefs are not in agreement.

CONSENT

Dolder, Chief of the Division of Beaches and Parks, said he, too, was not satisfied with the present law which gives the Highway Commission authority to put freeways through park lands.

Resources Administrator Fisher's statement, read by his assistant Fred L. Jones, also urged requiring the consent of the State Park Commission in all such cases.

In addition, Fisher urged requiring the Highway Commission to give full consideration to "natural resources values," as it now is required to consider community values in choosing routes.

And he recommended knocking out a present provision that directs choosing "the most direct locations" for highways.

U. S. 101

It has already been recognized, he said, that "where other vital public interests are involved, the Highway Commission should not have unlimited powers in its selection of freeway and highway routes."

Another witness, Margaret Owings, member of the State Park Commission, testified on the still unresolved deadlock over a freeway through or around Prairie Creek State Park, 50 miles north of Eureka.

Widening present Highway 101 through the park would be tragic, and a beach alternative would "dismember" the scenic area, she said. She favored an inland, hillier route, longer and $6 million more costly.

She also said she was "not too happy" with a chosen route through Jedediah Smith Redwood State Park, although State Park Department Director DeTurk called this selection "an outstanding example of helpful co-operation" from the Division of Highways.

COORDINATOR

Nathaniel Owings, prominent San Francisco architect, told the committee bluntly that "the whole system of administration in the State should be changed," putting a "neutral" coordinator above both the natural resources and the transportation agencies.

He also suggested that automobiles may not continue to be the major means of transportation forever, and "in ten years, I predict, there will be thousands of miles of concrete in this state crumbling in disuse."

Agreeing with Owings, Dr. Edgar Wayburn, ex-president of the Sierra Club, declared "It may well be that by the year 2000 other methods of transportation will cause us to look back on our highway building with dismay."

Randal F. Dickey Jr., Alameda attorney and chairman of the Sierra Club's conservation committee, also testified in favor of curbing Highway Commission authority to take park lands.

Sam Helwer, Division of Highways District 1 engineer in Eureka, outlined the problems of routing freeways through the Redwood Empire counties, but testified that local residents of those areas are working with the State to solve them.

Harold Del Ponte, chairman of Del Norte Supervisors, supported Helwer's statement. His board, he said, favors the beach route past Prairie Creek park, which Helwer said seemed most practical, rather than the inland bypass urged by conservation groups.

Supervisor William C. Blake of San Francisco urged more consideration of parkway projects rather than freeways—and added his support for a curb on the power of the Highway Commission to choose routes through parks.

Parks or Roads—a Battle

Curb Highway Agency, Plea

Mrs. Margaret Owings, a member of the State Park Commission from Big Sur, yesterday asked the State to take away the Highway Commission's power to condemn state park lands for freeways.

Mrs. Owings, who appeared as a witness at a hearing of the State Senate Committee on Natural Resources here, pleaded for preservation of north state redwood parks through which new freeways are planned.

She also mentioned Lake Tahoe freeway plans affecting Emerald Bay and Bliss State parks, and said her commission is prepared to go to the Legislature to protect them against a massive freeway.

The park commissioner was one of a long parade of witnesses who testified at the State Building hearing. Most of the others asked for legislation to protect park lands from encroachment by high speed freeways.

Mental Health Value of Parks Debated at Resources Hearing

SAN FRANCISCO—Whether parks help heal nerves frayed by tensions of the modern world was debated yesterday at the hearing of the Senate Fact-Finding Committee on Natural Resources.

During the discussion on freeways versus parks, a pro-park witness said that parks are good for mental health. But their therapeutic value was questioned by a pro-highway witness who suggested there are as many mentally disturbed people in the forests as out.

The subject was brought up by one of the nation's top authorities on scenic roads, Dr. David Levin of Washington, D.C. He is director of the Scenic Roads and Parkways Study being conducted by the U.S. State Department of Commerce.

Compliments Farr

Prefacing his remarks by commending California and complimenting State Sen. Fred S. Farr (D-Carmel), chairman of the committee, for pioneering scenic roads, Levin said that most state highway departments do not have the authority to destroy parks by penetrating them.

He said parks are good for mental as well as physical health.

The other view was presented by Manager R. F. Denbo of the Eureka Chamber of Commerce who prefaced his remarks with a comment deploring recreation studies. "Never before in the history of the U.S. has the government had on its payroll so many persons whose job it is to see that the people have fun."

Disagreement

Speaking in support of the State Division of Highways' intrusion into state parks, Denbo said:

"It seems that not all recreation authorities agree that outdoor recreation is an essential requirement of the normal individual. Marion Clawson of Resources of the Future, who is a recognized authority in the recreation field, has this to say in his new book, 'Land and Water for Recreation':

"Some recreation specialists, many social workers and others emphasize the role that outdoor recreation plays in a physically and emotionally healthy individual. According to this view, the normal person needs some outdoor recreation as a relief from the tensions of the job and living in the modern urban world, and that without this recreation experience there is grave danger of ill health, physical or emotional.

"This view is rather widely held in varying degrees of intensity. We doubt its accuracy seriously; at least we have seen no convincing evidence that outdoor recreation is essential to either physical or emotional health.

"We suspect there are just as many emotionally ill-adjusted wandering through the woods or lying on the beaches as there are cooped up in the apartment before the television set . . ."

Freeways Get Tongue-lashing

By FRED SORRI

SAN FRANCISCO—California's Division of Highways continued to take a tongue-lashing for plans to invade state parks with freeways as the Senate Fact-Finding Committee on Natural Resources continued its hearings this morning.

Referring to several parks in the northern part of the state richly endowed with redwoods through which freeways are planned, Martin Litton, a director of the Sierra Club and travel editor of Sunset magazine, said:

"It is not saddening, it is sickening to a native Californian to see this happening. This land-grabbing for freeways seems to be a compulsion to destroy the beauty of California."

State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel), chairman of the committee, admonished John Legarre, deputy director of the Division of Highways, during an exchange in the State Building this morning. Farr told Legarre that the millions of Americans who come to California should not be subjected to the boredom of present highways.

"In the future we can do a better job," he told the highway official.

When Farr asked how many licensed landscape architects the Division of Highways had and was told by Legarre there was only one, Farr urged that one be employed in each division and particularly in such sensitive areas as Monterey County.

Farr asked if the division ever considered the feasibility of design competition in planning freeway overpasses. Legarre said it had been thought of but nothing had been done about it.

Farr said he had noticed great uniformity and little imagination in overpasses.

Referring to architect Edward D. Stone's treatment of the Community Hospital on the Monterey Peninsula, Farr said much could be done with such treatment of material on the state's highway bridges. To this, Legarre responded: "You can do almost anything as long as you're willing to pay for it."

Yesterday, architect Nathaniel Owings of Big Sur, member of the state's scenic highway advisory committee, told the committee that "we are at a moment of history." He recalled that 100 years ago canals were the important mode of transportation, then railroads were the rage. Now it's the airplane and automobile, he said.

Not Here To Stay

"The auto is not here to stay in the form that we know it," Owings said. He predicted that in 10 years thousands of miles of pavement now being laid will be unused. He criticized laying new roads which destroy natural resources. He urged that another look be taken with consideration given to mass transportation.

He advocated a restudy of state administrative procedures, recommending the appointment of a neutral administrator over both the Division of Highways and the Division of Beaches and Parks.

At this point, Owings said, "I'm willing to be the Billy Mitchell of conservatism." To this State Sen. Paul J. Lunardi (D-Roseville) replied, "I hope you get a medal before you are buried."

Owings likened the new administrative setup that he recommended to the state to that of the Defense Department in pulling together the Army, Navy and Air Force.

Gas Taxes

Another witness was Charles A. DeTurk, director of the California Department of Parks and Recreation, who asked for legislation "prohibiting any encroachment into state park lands without specific approval of the State Park Commission."

"Everyone who visits California state parks gets there by automotive transportation," DeTurk said. "Every one of them pays gasoline taxes as part of this transportation. We do not believe that the gasoline tax the public pays to get to its parks should be used to mar their enjoyment of those parks."

He said that both the Division of Beaches and Parks and the Division of Highways are to be congratulated for the effective manner in which they are working jointly for good highways and good parks.

Disagreement

"In the total of 170 units of the state park system there are only two or three areas of serious disagreement between the Division of Beaches and Parks and the Division of Highways," he said.

"We contend that picnicking in a quiet forest is a vastly different recreational experience from picnicking alongside a freeway. Freeway routes can be moved to suit man's will, but we can't move a beautiful ocean beach, or a Lake Tahoe, or a magnificent grove of redwoods even a fraction of an inch," DeTurk said.

The hearings were to conclude this afternoon.

Farr Plan: Protect Parks by Leashing Highway Commission

By FRED SORRI

SAN FRANCISCO — Legislation to curb the power of the California Division of Highways by permitting it to invade state parks only with the consent of the State Park Commission was ordered drafted yesterday by State Sen. Fred S. Farr (D-Carmel).

The restricting legislation designed to preserve the parks was proposed at the conclusion of hearings before the Senate Fact Finding Committee on Natural Resources which is chaired by Farr.

During the hearings there were sharp exchanges over proposed freeways which would desecrate memorial redwood groves in Prairie Creek Park north of Eureka and Jedediah Smith Park northeast of Crescent City. Crux of the controversy was the State Division of Highways' absolute authority to penetrate such parks.

Conservationists said that the sanctity and integrity of the parks must be preserved even at the considerable expense of routing roads around them. The lumbering interests said that building freeways to bypass parks made them longer and steeper and therefore more hazardous and much more expensive to operate their trucks on as well as to construct.

The legislation ordered drafted by Farr was proposed by Bestor Robinson, an Oakland attorney who specializes in eminent domain. He called attention to the fact that about the only thing through which a freeway cannot be built is a cemetery. Robinson suggested that if the parks were dedicated as cemeteries then the intrusion of highways could be halted under present law.

Opposing such legislation was the Eureka Chamber of Commerce, represented by Manager R. F. Denbo who said: "As far as the planning, procedures and criteria of constructing the California State Highways, we strongly urge and advocate there be no change in the present method of choosing the roads and adoption of the procedures that are outlined according to the California Legislature."

When asked by Farr what he thought of a Redwood National Park in his area, Denbo said he thought 95 per cent of the people of Humboldt County would be opposed to it.

He said such a park would end the production of at least one large lumber mill and smaller mills which depend on it. Earlier he had noted that of the $218,078,245 income of the county, $159,831,130 is from the lumber industry.

Farr, who won high praise from the conservationists present, called a cut of timber by the Arcata Lumber Co., which he said destroyed the watershed, "a fantastic desecration of land and timber." He asked Denbo what he thought of it.

"We would like to have seen them leave a strip along the highway," the chamber manager said.

"What for," said Farr, "so you can't see the desecration?"

Denbo's support of the Division of Highways was endorsed by Carney J. Campion, general manager of the Redwood Empire Assn., an organization of lumber companies.

He said there is a "calculated campaign which by inference leads the American public to believe that our Sequoia sempervirens is within weeks of being liquidated. The totally false impression is given that, through wanton destruction, the last of these trees are soon to be logged-off."

Another disturbing point to the association "is the attack being perpetrated by a few vocal groups and individuals upon the integrity of the California Highway Commission and its duly authorized, proven and successful procedures in administering the expenditure of gasoline tax funds for highway purposes," Campion said.

Robert Jasperson, executive secretary of the Conservation Law Society of America, said modern highways make parks more accessible, but he added "This should not be carried to extreme by destroying the very thing for which the ready access is being provided." He said the state "has both a moral and legal obligation to bypass lands dedicated to park purposes."

Alfred J. Stern, chairman of the State Park Commission, suggested legislation to direct the State Highway Commission to give full consideration and weight to the values which might be impaired by intrusion of highways in parks and said that property dedicated to state park purposes should be invaded only with the consent of the park commission.

Catastrophic Invasion of Parks

Desecration of the memorial redwood groves in Northern California as shown in this aerial photo of a new freeway going through Founder's Grove at Humboldt Redwoods State Park would be prevented by new legislation recommended by the State Fact Finding Committee on Natural Resources at the conclusion of two days of hearings in San Francisco yesterday. To the left of the freeway is the old scenic highway, shown by arrows, which is difficult to see even from the air. Legislation proposed by State Sen. Fred S. Farr (D-Carmel) would prevent the Division of Highways from what was described at the hearing in San Francisco as "the catastrophic invasion of parks."

Humboldt Residents Oppose State Park

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Ninety-five per cent of the residents of Humboldt County are opposed to the creation of a redwood national park in their area, according to the manager of the Eureka Chamber of Commerce.

R.F. Denbo made the statement Thursday during testimony before a Senate Fact-finding Committee on Natural Resources. The committee is headed by Sen. Fred S. Farr, D-Carmel.

Denbo, answering a question by Farr, said such a park would end the production of at least one large lumber mill and smaller mills which depend on it.

Farr called a cut of timber by the Arcata Lumber Co., which he said destroyed the watershed, "a fantastic desecration of land and timber," and asked Denbo what he thought of it.

"We would like to have seen them leave a strip along the highway," Denbo replied.

"What for," countered Farr, "so you can't see the desecration?"

On another subject, Denbo praised the methods of the Highway Commission and said, "We strongly urge and advocate there be no change in the present method of choosing the roads."

He urged that the proposed freeway beach route be adopted along Prairie Creek Redwoods State Park north of Eureka. He said the route was more economical, would give tourists a view of the ocean and trees, be an all-year highway because it is below the frost line, and result in the cutting down of fewer trees.

Carney J. Campion, general manager of the Redwood Empire Association, told the committee the Redwood Highway is "the lifeblood for growth and economic development" of the area.

"No other area in California is as dependent on highway transportation as ours," he said, and urged that the highway north to the Oregon border be made a full freeway as soon as possible.

"Some people oppose improvements on the Redwood Highway," Campion said, "but it is difficult to understand their protests when we consider the groves and parks were made possible by access."

Robert Jasperson, executive secretary of the Conservation Law Society of America, admitted that modern highways make parks more accessible to visitors, but added this "should not be carried to the extreme by destroying the very thing for which the ready access is being provided."

Jasperson said the state "has both a moral and a legal obligation to bypass lands dedicated to park purposes."

Highway Commission Under New Attacks

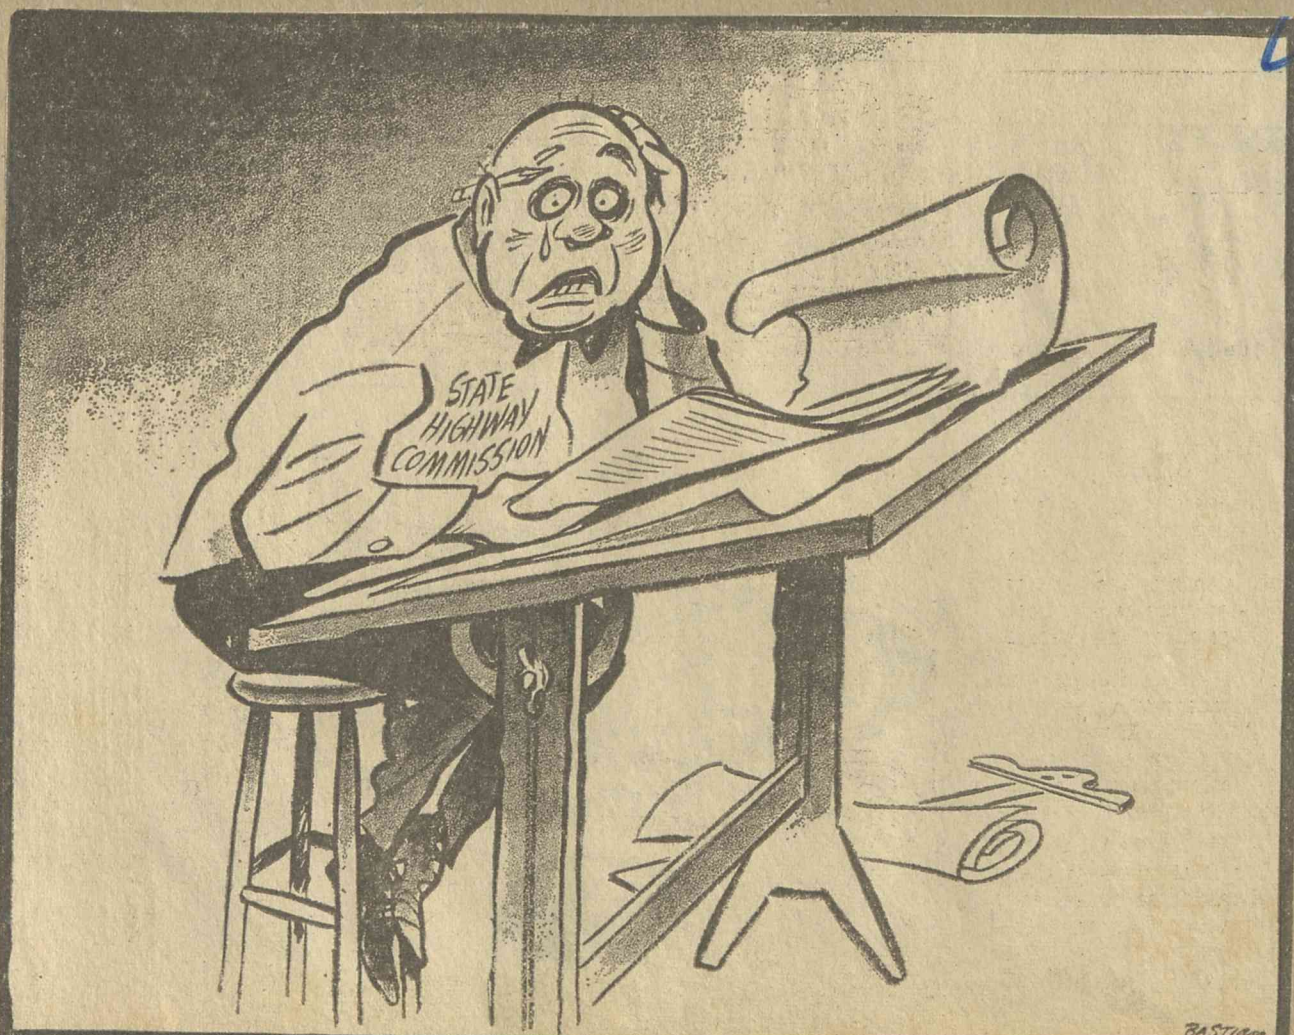

IT SHOULD NOW BE APPARENT to the State Highway Commission that the natives are restless. Even its most tunnel-visioned members must be aware that unless their autocratic arrogance is abruptly and liberally tempered by decent consideration for the environment and the citizens who inhabit it, a state-wide public uprising is inevitable.

Familiarity has perhaps made the commission scornful of the so-called freeway revolts in which citizens, from one end of the State to the other, have wailed over having their countryside or cityscape gouged, uglified and blighted by arbitrary routing and dowdy designing. But it is now under sharp attack from other quarters. State executives are protesting its authority to jam freeways through schoolyards and across parks and redwood groves. A State Senate committee has openly complained of its run-of-the-mill, uninteresting, straight-line, strictly utilitarian stretches of pavement and called them "boring."

State Highway Commission: Friend or Foe?

It is not news to say that preserving California's God-given heritage in beauty is a prime objective of The Herald. It has been for years. It will be for years to come.

In a state that provides some of the most desirable landscape in the world, it becomes imperative to protect it against the fast-buck artists who always are ready to move in and despoil for profit.

The state continues to grow, its newcomers lured here by the native loveliness, the equable climate, the acres of buildable land and the acres and more acres that are so nice to look at.

We were proud of Margaret Owings' presentation before the State Senate's Fact-Finding Committee on Natural Resources.

Mrs. Owings, a member of the State Beaches and Parks Commission, spelled out in some detail the conflict between it and the State Highway Commission with particular reference to saving the irreplaceable redwoods.

Specifically, she wants to end the highway commission's authority to select routes through state parks without the approval of the parks commission.

She wasn't exactly talking to a hostile audience. The chairman of the committee is Sen. Fred Farr of Carmel, a foremost conservationist.

Senator Farr, in this month's Sierra Club Bulletin, has written a powerful plea for the exercise of good sense as against consuming greed.

It is unfortunate that the greed, in this case, comes from another state body, one made up of dedicated Californians who should be more interested than most in preserving redwoods, but too often are led by engineers who couldn't care less about what cuts and fills do to scar the scenery.

Farr put it well, we thought, discussing proposals to route a freeway through the Prairie Creek Redwoods State Park on the north coast:

"The conservationist, whose values tend to be intangible, usually expects to be at cross-purposes with certain interests.

"The logger, for example, measures a tree in terms of board feet, and the subdivider is apt to have his view of scenic beauty distorted by pecuniary considerations."

But, the senator went on, the Prairie Creek park is a problem of a different sort:

"The potential despoiler is not a logger or a subdivider myopically seeking a profit, but an arm of the state government proceeding, presumably, with no other purpose than that of the public good."

The Highway Commission, he said, is "one with the power to desecrate trees held in a public trust ... to partition a state park ... utterly to eradicate the solitude of that park made possible by generous donors of land and money."

He suggested a commission with less power to bull its way through. Mrs. Owings suggested a highway to cost $12 million by avoiding cutting 1,000 of the finest coastal redwoods, instead of the $9 million the Division of Highways proposed on the theory that a straight line is the shortest distance from here to there.

We applaud both the senator and Mrs. Owings, and we think the difference in costs is worth it to the traveler who is taking the highway to view its beauty.

The state picked up $478 million in gas tax last year, up $92 million over a year ago. We can see no better place to spend $3 million.

Let's build straight-line freeways across the desert. Like, perhaps between Needles and Barstow—the longest stretch we know on a major transcontinental route without a modern, divided highway.

Strong Support Is Given To Curb On Freeways

The strongest expressions yet given in favor of curbing the authority of the state highway commission to run freeways through state parks were made last Wednesday before a state senate committee.

In formidable array against such arbitrary powers by the road commissioners were Hugo Fisher, administrator of the state resources agency; Charles A. DeTurk, director of the state department of parks and recreation, and Edward Dolder, chief of the state division of beaches and parks.

The hearing before the senate group headed by Senator Fred S. Farr of Monterey County was especially timely in view of controversies over running freeways through state parks in the redwoods area and at Lake Tahoe. The legislature would act wisely to establish a policy whereby approval by the park commission of freeway routing also would be necessary where the highway would cut through state park lands. Why not?

However, the question of a specific freeway going through a specific park is but a corollary to the overall policy question which sooner or later must be resolved by the legislature. That is the matter of the arbitrary authority of the highway commission to construct freeways where, when and how it pleases.

Where values other than those affecting the movement of motor vehicles are heavily involved the road commissioners should not be allowed to disregard them. The delicate task of the legislature is to bring about adequate recognition of these other factors without placing undue and unnecessary obstacles in the way of the highway builders.

Gov. Brown Defends Highway Commission

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown today praised the State Highway Commission as being "very deliberate," despite criticism of the group. He repeated that a controversial freeway would never be built through the northern redwoods.

The governor's statement at a press conference this morning followed last week's hearings in San Francisco of the State Senate Fact-finding Committee on Natural Resources, in which conservation and Division of Highways representatives clashed on freeway problems.

Sen. Fred S. Farr (D-Carmel) is chairman of the committee.

Traffic Aid

Brown's defense of the State Highway Commission included citing its work in deciding where freeways should be constructed to aid in the ever-growing flow of traffic.

He said the commission had worked to meet the specifications for scenic highways and "if you'll look closely at our freeway system, you will find it landscaped."

On the same general topic, Brown said that San Francisco eventually will have to agree on a freeway program or "it's going to be smothered by cars."

"In San Francisco today," he added, "you can spend three-fourths of your life in an automobile."

Brown also discussed these other topics:

Parks — He hasn't decided who to appoint as director of the State Parks and Recreation Department, following the resignation of Charles DeTurk, who will take over his old job as chief of the Division of Beaches and Parks. The governor said he would "like to get somebody from California" but also "would like to get a hard, tough administrator."

DeTurk stepped down last week after reports the State Parks Commission was dissatisfied with his administrative abilities. Brown confirmed the park commission had talked with him but he said the members were not agreed on the subject.

What's YOUR Opinion?

Save the Scenery Editor, The Herald:

As a former resident of Humboldt County, I should like to commend most heartily Fred Sorri's editorial in the Dec. 22 Herald, evaluating the recent hearings before Sen. Farr's Fact Finding Committee on Natural Resources. If I were still living in that county, I should no doubt be a member of a "cell" working toward a Redwoods National Park.

In the November Sierra Club bulletin Sen. Farr has an epoch-making article on "The Highway Commission and the Public Good." Every voter in California should read it. Most public libraries have it on file. There is one point—and it is a key point—that both he and Fred Sorri have emphasized.

The biggest obstacle to action in the state legislature that would restrict the power of the State Highway Commission in running freeways through state parks is the truckers' lobby. In the case of the highly controversial freeway at Prairie Creek Redwoods State Park in Northern California, the truckers are opposed to the route that conservationists favor east of the park, because it would take a few minutes longer with changing of gears.

The truckers' lobby is an all-powerful one. There is only one way of overcoming it, and that is by the writing of hordes of letters to the members of our state legislature, not only by conservationists but by all motorists who hope to enjoy a little of the fast-disappearing scenery along our major highways.

The burden of these letters should be that the State Highway Commission should no longer have undisputed right to route the freeways through any part of the state parks. To be effective this should be a statewide movement and it should continue through the coming session of the state legislature.

C. EDWARD GRAVES,
Carmel Valley.

Editor, The Herald:

A word of congratulation to the Monterey Peninsula Herald upon the splendid editorial by Fred Sorri in the Dec. 22 edition.

As a member of the Save-the-Redwoods League in life and a contributor in death to a grove in the Prairie Creek Redwood State Park, I am personally indebted to The Herald's publication of Fred Sorri's appealing editorial; also to the fine contribution to the cause of the redwoods made by Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Owings.

That there should be any dissension in the matter of so sublime a legacy as that of the redwoods is appalling. I ponder on what have we reverence for today!...

Farr Criticizes Brown For Perhaps the First Time

San. Cal.
12/26/64

State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel), for perhaps the first time in his long legislative career, this week criticized Gov. Edmund G. Brown, a fellow Democrat.

After reading an account of the Governor's Tuesday press conference, in which Brown said that he was "not concerned at all" about certain controversial freeways in the state — such as that over Carmel Hill — Farr fired off a wire which said in part:

"Those who work hard for the preservation of the natural beauty of California take little comfort at your press conference (statements) that you place in . . . irreconcilable categories the Prairie Creek freeway routing and that you are 'not concerned at all' with Carmel Hill or Lake Tahoe."

Farr, who is considered the Senate's leading conservationist, said that "the Carmel Hill project is but partially completed . . . the worst is yet to come." He also said that "those who strive for more attractive freeways" to preserve California's rapidly dwindling natural resources "would hope to have you as an ally in this most important struggle."

Farr Wins Praise From President

The President of the United States and the Governor of California were in communication with State Sen. Fred S. Farr (D-Carmel) recently with regard to preservation of natural beauty.

President Lyndon B. Johnson praised the senator for his keen interest in conservation and said his ideas and suggestions would be of great value to him in formulating the program of his administration.

It was Farr who initiated the communication with Gov. Edmund G. Brown. The senator criticized the governor for his apparent disregard for the natural beauties of the state.

President's Letter

In his letter to Farr, the President said: "I want to thank you for your service as a member of the Task Force on the Preservation of Natural Beauty. I can appreciate the sacrifice such services entail.

"You have correctly focused on the human need for beauty in our daily lives and have recommended means of providing beauty where it is most sorely needed — in our great metropolitan centers. You have recognized the enormous potential for beauty in our vast public works and have indicated ways to achieve harmony with our countryside. You have pointed out the steps to guide us in the social use of our environment—the earth.

"In the years immediately ahead we have, I believe, an unparalleled opportunity to take some major steps forward toward creating the Great Society. You and your colleagues on the Preservation of Natural Beauty Task Force have made a major contribution toward that goal.

Your ideas and suggestions will be of great value to me in formulating the program of this administration now and during the years ahead."

Senator's Telegram

Farr's telegram to Brown was prompted by statements the governor made during his press conference Monday in which he endorsed a highway route through a memorial Redwood grove in Humboldt County's Prairie Creek State Park. The senator wired this to the governor:

"Those who work hard for the preservation of the natural beauty of California take little comfort from statement at your press conference that you place in the irreconcilable category the Prairie Creek freeway routing and that you are not concerned at all with Carmel Hill or Lake Tahoe.

"The Carmel Hill project is but partially completed—the worst is yet to come. At Lake Tahoe many Californians are concerned. You as governor can exercise the necessary leadership to see that the ridge route outside Prairie Creek Park is accepted.

"As you so well know, California has many beautiful highways and some attractive freeways, but by and large most freeways in this state are choked with automobiles and for the average commuter make driving to and from work a daily boring experience.

"Those who strive for more attractive freeways, scenic roads and preservation of our rapidly dwindling resources would hope to have you as a strong ally in this most important struggle."

Farr Wins Lavish Praise From President for Work

Monterey County State Sen. Fred Farr (D-Carmel) has won lavish praise from President Lyndon B. Johnson for his participation in the blue-ribbon "Task Force on the Preservation of Natural Beauty."

In a letter to Sen. Farr, the President wrote: "You have correctly focused on the human need for beauty in our daily lives, and have recommended means of providing beauty where it is most sorely needed—in our great metropolitan centers. You have recognized the enormous potential for beauty in our vast public works, and have indicated ways to achieve harmony with our countryside. You have pointed out the steps to guide us in the social use of our environment, the earth."

The President added that "in the years immediately ahead we have . . . an unparalleled opportunity to take some major steps forward toward creating the Great Society. You and your colleagues on the Preservation of Natural Beauty task force have made a major contribution toward that goal. Your ideas and suggestions will be of great value to me in formulating the program of this administration during the years ahead."

Sen. Farr, who is considered the state legislature's leading conservationist, was the only legislator on the task force, which included eminent naturalists, conservationists and planners from throughout the country.

State Gives In for Funds for Front St.

The city has won its lengthy battle with the state division of highways concerning capital outlay expenditures for Front street improvements, according to a copy of a letter from State Highway Engr. J. C. Womach to Senator Fred Farr.

City Clerk A. N. Anderson read the copy to councilmen Wednesday night, adding that he had not yet received formal written approval from division headquarters at San Luis Obispo.

Womach stated in his letter to Senator Farr that the way is now cleared for the city to appropriate 55% of the storm drain costs from the city's 2107 gas tax restricted funds. There had never been any question concerning expenditures from this restricted fund for curb and gutter installations planned at the same time. Up to $3,800 can also be counted on from the state division of highways as its share in curb and gutter improvements from Oak street to East street which is under state highway jurisdiction. Necessary balance needed will come from the city's capital outlay fund.

The project runs roughly from a point between Oak and Dixie street to Main street along the west side of Front street.

Total estimated cost is placed at $33,760, according to the city engineers.

The project will go to bid as soon as the city hears from Robert Datel at San Luis Obispo.

Leashing Highway Unit Would Not Be Enough

As a reporter assigned to cover last week's hearings in San Francisco of the State Senate Fact Finding Committee on Natural Resources, I wrote a series of news stories about the intrusion of freeways in state parks. Now I have been asked to express any opinions I might have gleaned from listening to that two days of testimony.

One thing the hearings made apparent is that there is something stinking in the Redwood Country. It comes from international agitation about local complacency with regard to the preservation of the redwood. Wide-spread indignation over recent intrastate approval to desecrate memorial groves has stirred a pond stagnated by the domination of trucking and lumbering industries.

Shocking was the callousness of the highway proponents who would rip out thousand-year-old redwoods in the name of expediency. This testimony of R. F. Denbo, manager of the one - industry - controlled Eureka Chamber of Commerce, illustrates the point:

"The remarks that these trees should be preserved and perpetuated as living memorials to be held in their natural state for the enjoyment of all people for all time tends to ignore one basic fact of biology—everything that is born must die."

One would think that it is just common sense for the people of the Redwood Country to employ good lumbering practices for the sake of their own future. And yet our own Sen. Fred Farr, the committee chairman who won a permanent place in the hearts of conservationists, said that the Arcata Lumber Co. has just clearcut a big redwood grove, denuding an entire watershed. He said the devastation he saw there was appalling.

Martin Litton of the Sierra Club told me there are some park-minded people in Humboldt County but that the reprisals for this kind of audacity are such that they have gone underground.

The park proponents, who hold what they call "cell" meetings are not without some influence, for one chamber of commerce in that area voted 8-to-7 against a national redwood park. The ballot was secret, but the establishment did not like the closeness of the vote.

Litton, travel editor of Sunset burn more fuel in the lower gears. That means they are opposed to a longer, steeper route bypassing Prairie Creek Redwood State Park, 50 miles north of Eureka.

In their testimony, the Redwood Empire Assn. representative called park proponents "anti-highway ultra-preservationists" and said his group was for the beach route through that park. I subscribe to what the National Park Service of the U.S. Department of Interior says about that route, though it also is the one favored by the Eureka Chamber of Commerce:

"The beach route would irreparably damage a beautiful wild stretch of ocean frontage. This is an important and unique part of the park here, where it is one of the two remaining places virgin redwoods sweep down in natural ecological setting to bluff and beach. In addition, it would cut through an important dedicated grove of redwoods."

This association claims as great an interest in conservation as it has in safe highways. To prove it, Carney J. Campion, general manager of the Redwood Empire Assn., said during the hearing:

"Our highway planners have done a dedicated job of preserving the balance between safe roads and scenic values, and we cite the Avenue of the Giants and its bypass as a case in point."

If this is what the lumber companies mean by preservation, the redwoods are surely doomed. True, the Avenue of the Giants in Humboldt Redwoods State Park was avoided through a compromise solution, but the bypass sliced a wide swath through the park, resulting in a shocking scar and loss of thousands of trees.

Two of Monterey County's esteemed citizens, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Owings of Big Sur, gave admirable testimony in behalf of the redwoods. Margaret Owings appropriately quoted what John Muir said of the redwoods:

"All things flow here in indivisible, measureless currents. This delicate balance cannot withstand intrusion."

Though it is a start, it is not going to be enough to enact legislation to leash the State Highway Commission by requiring State Park Commission approval to penetrate parks. Perhaps the highway commissioners, when-

Editorial Tells Threat to State's Redwoods

There is something rotten in the Redwood Country.

This is the opinion of Herald reporter Fred Sorri who last week reported on hearings held in San Francisco by the State Senate Fact Finding Committee on Natural Resources.

Sorri, turning from reporter to editorial writer, expresses great fear for the fate of California's redwoods on today's Opinion Page, pointing to the commercial interests which seem bent on their destruction.

In the Redwood Country, according to Sorri, those who seek to preserve these precious giants have been forced to go underground.

See page 26 for this reporter's opinion on what must be done to save this important natural heritage.

Birch Effort to Block UNICEF Sales Falters

MONTEREY (UPI) — A John Birch Society effort to block the sale of U.N. International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF) Christmas cards on the Monterey peninsula appeared Thursday to have boomeranged.

Holman's Department Store in Pacific Grove resumed sales of the U.N.'s group's cards and calendars Wednesday. The store had halted sales of the materials Tuesday following a meeting with Dan King III, local section leader for the Birch society.

But manager Vernon Hurd said there had been a misunderstanding on the part of the volunteers. "The store has always had an open door policy for everyone and I am sorry there has been a misunderstanding on this score."

King Objects

"... We also invite Dan King to sit at a table and pass out his literature if he so wishes."

King did not accept. Instead, he assailed what he considered a capitulation by Holman's.

"This is just another case of surrendering to the Communist-controlled United Nations," King said.

Bank of America branches at nearby Pacific Grove and Carmel, which also ejected

UNICEF card and calendar volunteer salesmen, continued to close their doors to them.

UNICEF helps provide food and medical care for needy children in more than 100 countries.

Mrs. Paul H. Riebe, director of the UNICEF card sale, reported booming sales of the cards and calendars and attributed it to "the general protest against King's kind of objection."

Scores of northern California businessmen offered floor space for UNICEF sales and State Sen. Fred S. Farr (D-Carmel) donated his mobile legislative office for UNICEF use this Saturday.
